ENGLAND READY TO FURTHER CAUSE OF DISARMAMENT

Chamberlain Says British Government in Full Agreement With Sentiments Expressed by Hull

PREMIER REFUSES DIRECT ANSWER

Women's Group Named to Operate Air Raid Precaution Service in War.

LONDON, June 16.—(P)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons today the British government was "always ready to co-operate with other nations" on the subject of disarmament.

He spoke in answer to a question by Arthur Henderson, Laborite, who sought the government's reaction to the recent speech by United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

(Secretary Hull in an address June 3 in Nashville, Tenn., laid down a four-point program of American co-operation toward "a world order based on law.")

(On disarmament he said: "With the world groaning under the burden of mounting armaments, we are prepared to join with other nations in moving resolutely toward bringing about an effective agreement on limitation and progressive reduction of armaments.")

In Full Agreement.
Chamberlain declared the government was "in full agreement with the sentiments expressed by Hull and they are always ready to co-operate with other nations" in attaining these objects.

Henderson, whose late father was president of the disarmament conference, then asked:

"Would the prime minister also indicate the willingness of his majesty's government to join with the United States government in making definite proposals with a view to securing a halt in the present arms race?"

Chamberlain, avoiding a direct answer, replied:

"I am not aware that the United States government have made any such suggestion."

Woman's Group Named.
The prime minister told the house Britain would abandon the practice of punitive bombings of villages on the northwest frontier of India and in Palestine if it stood in the way of a "general agreement to abolish bombing from the air."

Indicative of the scale on which Britain is preparing was the announcement by Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare of formation of a nation-wide women's organization to operate the air raid precaution services in time of war.

Women between the ages of 17 and 65 will be eligible. They will serve as air raid wardens, ambulance drivers, nurses, cooks and typists.

The government also floated an 80,000,000 pound ($400,000,000) loan to help finance the rearmament program.

Assume New Positions on The Constitution

RALPH T. JONES.

Ralph McGill Appointed To Executive Editorship

Ralph T. Jones Becomes Associate Editor in Promotions
Announced by Major Clark Howell, Editor and Publisher of The Constitution.

Following the World War, he returned to Vanderbilt University, earning fame on the football field. His journalistic talent became evident, and he was named editor of the college paper.

Restless for more active newspaper work, McGill left college. He obtained a job on the Nashville Banner, writing and covering state and national politics for three years. His entry into the sports writing field came as an accident, similar to the kind of "break" that has sent many an underdog actor into stage stardom.

The then sports editor became ill. An important sports event was scheduled. A colorful political reporting had gained him a reputation both in and outside his office. His superiors chose McGill to cover the sports event.

That first brilliant sports story later won him the post as sports editor.

Joins Constitution.
McGill was now firmly entrenched in the field of sports, and his fame as a sports writer spread. In April, 1929, he joined The Constitution as assistant sports editor, covering major football games, prize fights and other sports events.

In 1931, McGill became sports editor of The Constitution, serving in that capacity until his promotion to executive editor yesterday. His widely read column, "Break o' Day," was begun in the middle of July, 1931.

During his years in press boxes all over the country, McGill became well known among sports writers. In his recent book, "Farewell to Sport," Paul Gallico listed McGill, among many other famous writers, in the dedication to the book.

He is married. He and his wife have one child, a daughter, Virginia.

Jones has been associated with The Constitution more than 25 years, joining the staff of the paper in 1912.

Born in England.
He was born in Liverpool, England, but has been in this country since 1912.

Million Is Tossed Away for Love As N. Y. Deb Weds $21 Week Clerk

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 16.—(P)—Love conquered riches in a story-book romance today when pretty, socially prominent Rosemary Webster gave up a million-dollar inheritance to marry a $21 a week clerk in a county welfare home.

Miss Webster, 21-year-old debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David H. Webster, of New York and Stamford, Conn., defied her parents to marry Paul Gilson, 23, son of a Canton, N. Y., tailor. The wedding resulted from a four-month college romance.

The bride went quietly, almost grimly, about preparations for the marriage while two detectives,

NAZIS DISCLAIM RESPONSIBILITY IN AUSTRIAN DEBT

But Minister of Economics Funk Indicates Germany's Readiness to Discuss a Compromise.

EXTOLS NATION'S ECONOMIC STATUS

Says Country Has Offered an Unbroken Resistance to the Depression.

BREMEN, Germany, June 16.—(P)—Minister of Economics Walter Funk disclaimed today Germany's responsibility for $160,000,000 in Austrian state loans, but indicated the nation's readiness to make a compromise arrangement.

At the same time, asserting that National Socialist prestige "cannot tolerate the present state of affairs with reference to German state loans," he declared:

"An arrangement must be reached (on the Dawes and Young loans) whereby the interest rates of seven and five and one-half per cent, which no longer have any justification whatever, will be reduced to a normal level."

Funk spoke at a celebration of the 400th anniversary of Schaeffling House, headquarters of Bremen's chamber of commerce.

Extolls Achievement.
He extolled Nazi economic achievement and portrayed Germany as at the opposite pole from the United States in economic stability.

"Recent international economic discussions," he said, "are characterized by an identical tendency, namely, fear of a new, serious crisis in world economy."

"Two economic areas become manifest in this connection as marked Antipodes, on the one hand the United States of America, which is described as virtually the center of disturbances, and on the other hand Germany, whose economy thus far has offered unbroken resistance to the new depression."

German steel production, he added, "is beginning to outdistance American production."

Disclaims Debts.
Funk disclaimed political debts and disclaimed German legal, economic and moral responsibility for the Austrian state loans preceding Germany's annexation of Austria March 13. Americans are involved to the extent of $20,000,000.

Sweden Hails Gustav V On His 80th Birthday

STOCKHOLM, June 16.—(P)—Sweden gave a tumultuous ovation today to tall, benign King Gustav V., the world's oldest ruling monarch, in celebration of his eightieth birthday.

Tears came to his eyes when his people presented to him a check for 5,000,000 kroner ($1,250,000), a gift to help the nation's fight on infantile paralysis.

"Every evening," he said, "I pray to God to protect my beloved people and country."

Then, before 20,000 in Stockholm stadium, he declared in a touching speech:

"Nobody is perfect. I myself always have tried with honest intent to fill a heavy and responsible duty as your King."

Customers in Lather Over Strike Disorder

NEW YORK, June 16.—(P)—The barbers in a midtown shop were shunted to the street today by 15 shouting men, some of them strikers, leaving five lathered and indignant customers behind.

The customers, wearing the usual sheets, likewise dashed to the street mightily wrathful. Two returned and shaved themselves; the other three sat around until the barbers returned to work.

Tarver Is First in Exodus As 75th Congress Adjourns

George and Russell To Remain in Capital for Few More Days.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, June 16.—Representative Tarver, of Dalton, led the exodus of the Georgia congressional delegation out of Washington, following tonight's adjournment of the congress sine die, when he boarded the midnight train for his home.

The remaining 11 members, including both Senators George and Russell, planned to stay on from three days to two weeks, or longer, in order to clear their desks of urgent departmental matters.

Senator George, who will open his campaign for re-election with a speech at his home in Vienna on July 4, cannot leave before next Monday or Tuesday, he said.

Russell Undecided.
Senator Russell may leave next Saturday or Sunday. As yet he has not decided.

Representative Ramspeck, of Decatur, plans to remain in Washington until about July 1, attending departmental matters which he has pending and going to Scranton, Pa., to address a meeting of Pennsylvania state postal employees later this month.

His youngest daughter, Betty, does not finish her freshman year at the Western High school here until next week.

Representative Cox, of Camilla, who is preparing to wage a vigorous primary campaign against three opponents this summer, will not get away until early next week, and Representative Owen, of Griffin, who also has a primary fight on his hands; plans to motor to his Georgia home next Tuesday or Wednesday. Next Monday he will greet three of his constituents and go with them to the rural electrification headquarters in connection with an application for extensions to a Carroll county REA project.

Own also has a number of other business matters to attend to.

Georgians Make Hurried Plan To Enter Political Wars at Home.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(P)—Georgia congressmen made hurried plans to leave for the political wars at home today after a session which left them a little puzzled about how well their state had fared.

There still were obvious misgivings within the delegation about the wage-hour bill, although most Georgians found a sort of left-handed victory in the compromise draft.

A majority of the delegation disapproved wage-hour legislation of any kind, and especially did they protest against enactment of a bill which failed to permit flexibility of labor standard.

Senate-house conferees wrote into the measure an universal 40-cent minimum wage, to be reached within seven years, but they consented after days of wrangling to the southern demand for differentials based on costs of living, freight rates and other factors.

Georgians Pleased.
Georgians also were pleased over a provision in the conferees' bill exempting the naval stores industry from operation of the act.

When wage-hour legislation first was introduced it encountered opposition from many southern senators, including Senator George. Senator Russell was away from the capital when the vote was taken.

Opposition from southern members was even more heated in the house, and Representative Cox led a bloc which deadlocked the measure in the rules committee.

From the first, Representative Ramspeck was the most outspoken Georgia friend of labor standards legislation. He urged southerners to accept the relatively flexible Black-Connery measure in the form in which it passed the senate last year. He warned that

CHIEF EXECUTIVE PRAISES SOLONS FOR 'GOOD WORK'

$289,000,000 Deficiency Appropriations Compromise Is Approved Shortly Before Quitting Time.

BANKHEAD LAUDS HOUSE MEMBERS

Battle Between F. D. R. and Conservatives Is Shifted to Hamlets.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(P)—The 75th congress, which came in like a lamb in January, 1937, went out something like a lion tonight, with Roosevelt friends and Roosevelt foes quarreling to the last.

Before the senate knocked off work for the year at 8:22 p. m. (Atlanta time), an angry filibuster defeated an attempt by Senator Minton, Democrat, Indiana, administration supporter, to obtain $12,500 more for his senate lobby committee, a center of furious controversy.

The house, too, was the scene of much hard feeling almost until the final gavel. But members there did manage to put on something of a "love feast" at the very last.

Chairman O'Connor, Democrat, New York, of the house rules committee, arose to praise Representative Snell, Republican, New York, the minority leader. Snell praised Speaker Bankhead. Bankhead praised Snell, and then broadened his remarks to take in the whole house.

Lauds Members.
"You cannot find anywhere in America a finer cross section of patriotism, intelligence, devotion to duty and high character than you will find in the house of representatives," he said.

A gigantic cheer went up, and a short time later the chamber adjourned; at 9:08 p. m., Atlanta time.

Pages tossed handfuls of paper into the air.

Previously, President Roosevelt had sent a message to "the hill" saying that the session had "resulted in much constructive legislation for the benefit of the people."

"Definitely," he said, "we are making progress in meeting the many new problems which confront us."

He apparently referred to, among other things, the passage of wage-hour legislation, crop control and a renewal of the administration's spending-lending program, for which congress voted $3,753,000,000 today.

Cite Accomplishments.
On the other hand, critics of the administration pointed to their accomplishments, including the Investments.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—A TVA financial policy committee recommended today that 52 per cent of the government's principal investment in Wilson, Norris and Wheeler dams be designated as power development costs. In a report which President Roosevelt transmitted to congress, the committee placed the total capital investment in the dams at $94,125,671.

From this sum it deducted $23,967,177 as being chargeable solely to power development, $4,075,988 to navigation and $2,600,000 to flood control. The remaining $63,482,506, it said, should be allocated on the basis of 52 per cent to power, 28 to navigation and 20 per cent to flood control.

JERSEY CITY POLICE
RECORDS UNDER FIREHague Denies Crime Data
'Dishonest' and Rejected by FBI.

NEWARK, N. J., June 16.—(AP) Mayor Frank Hague—whose Jersey City campaign slogan is "no vice, no crime, no racketeering"—denied in federal court today a CIO lawyer's charge the city's records on crime and police protection were "so dishonest and inaccurate" the Federal Bureau of Investigation rejected them.

The city, said Hague, "withdrew" and shut its records to the FBI because the federal agency insisted on listing Jersey City auto deaths as murders in its annual reports.

Hague, questioned by Morris L. Ernst, counsel for the CIO and American Civil Liberties Union in their "free speech" injunction suit against him, said he knew the FBI "treats every city alike."

But the mayor said it was unfair—because he had no official knowledge—to ask him if he knew the bailiwick he has ruled for 25 years was the only city in the United States whose crime record was not incorporated in FBI data.

Hoover, commenting on Hague's testimony, said in Washington that the FBI didn't use Jersey City crime reports "because they so obviously are incomplete."

After a turbulent session in which the vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee and Ernst engaged in repeated arguments over Hague's manner of answering questions, the mayor's direct examination came to a close.

INCOME TAX GAIN
SHOWN IN GEORGIA

Federal income tax collections in Georgia showed a gain of 4.8 per cent during the three months ending June 15 as compared with the corresponding 1937 figures, Marion H. Allen, Georgia collector, announced yesterday.

The total for the period was $2,613,790 and the 1937 second quarter total was $2,495,650.

March collections this year, which included first payments on 1937 income taxes, were $4,847,466, a gain of $177,193 over the total for March of last year.

ARMY WILL CONDUCT EXAMS FOR AIR CORPS. Examinations will be held in July and August for appointment of approximately 200 second lieutenants in the air corps of the regular army, it was announced yesterday at fourth corps area headquarters.

Applicants are limited to graduates of the air corps training center. They must be less than 29 years and 10 months old of August 1.

Safety Is Urged
During Holiday
By Two GroupsA plea to reduce accidents during the month of July was made yesterday by the Crippled Children League and the Elks. "A safe and sane vacation should be uppermost in the minds of all those who are to vacation during July," George B. Yancey, president of the Atlanta branch of the Crippled Children League; Frank R. Fling, exalted ruler of the Atlanta Elks, and J. Clayton Burke, Elks' secretary, stated yesterday.

Pointing out July 4 will bring a three-day holiday period for most workers, the three officials requested the co-operation of everyone in preventing all types of accidents. The fourth usually brings a heavy casualty list, they said.

"Plan for safety and take safety during July," Yancey advised.

VICTIM OF BLAST
BURIED IN ROSWELLNo Explosion Cause Fixed in Bailiff's Death.

Funeral services for Gideon T. Bailiff, 52, superintendent of the city rock quarry, who was killed Wednesday in a dynamite blast at the quarry, were held yesterday afternoon in Center Street Methodist church. The Rev. W. W. Watkins officiated. Burial was in Roswell, Ga.

Henry Sparks, 56, a veteran driller, who suffered severe contusions about the face, hands and body in the blast, was reported by Grady hospital attaches last night as being in "fair" condition.

Twelve other members of the quarry crew, who received minor injuries, were dismissed by Grady hospital after first-aid treatment.

Clarke Donaldson, city chief of construction, submitted a report of the accident yesterday afternoon to the street committee of city council. The report, signed by Rex W. LeFebvre, engineer of the street division, did not fix any cause for the accident.

Women of the Sunday School class of Center Street Methodist church will present a baptismal font to the church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The gift is in honor of the memory of Mrs. J. F. Freeman, for years a member of the church and a class teacher.

CITY ATTORNEY GETS
'HOME RULE' CHARTER

Proposed charter and constitutional amendments to give Atlanta "home rule" and the power of annexation of adjacent land were referred to the city attorney for study yesterday by the ordinance and legislation committee of city council.

The committee favored a charter amendment to limit the time for filing damage suits against the city to 90 days.

Councilman John A. White was author of the annexation and "home rule" proposals.

MEDICAL GROUP BANS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—(AP)—The house of delegates of the American Medical Association today killed without debate two proposals for employing press agents and legislative counsel to represent the organization before the public and before congress.

Without dissent the delegates adopted a committee report stressing the importance of avoiding any innovation which might "disturb present channels through which the public is constantly reached through agencies already in existence."

FEDERAL FUND SOUGHT

Federal funds to conduct a house-to-house educational campaign to eradicate the mosquito are being sought by W. H. Edwards Jr., city sanitary engineer.

Two 50-gallon liquor stills were seized by Fulton deputy sheriffs yesterday in their first raid on "moonshine" whisky since taking office in March.

A man listed as T. W. Bagwell was arrested in the ravine and another listed as C. E. Hindman was arrested in a farmhouse near the barn. Both men posted $1,000 bonds at Fulton tower. Deputies said neither of the stills was in operation. Those making the raids were R. L. Carr Jr., J. M. Turner, Ed Burdette, Herb Eldson, J. M. Nelms and L. M. Hardy.

Veto on Farm Loans Overridden; 75th Congress Is Adjourned

Roosevelt Praises Lawmakers for 'Much Constructive Work'; Spending-Lending Measure Is Given Approval.

crushing defeat of the government reorganization bill, and elimination of all but a fragment of the tax on undistributed profits of corporations.

The senate's filibuster was conducted upon the frank and unusual basis of being just that. Its leader was Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, who contended Minton wanted to violate the freedom of the press by using the $12,500 to study certain newspapers.

"We have heard some talk about filibustering today," Burke said. "The time has come for a practical example of a filibuster."

Minton defended his course with an assertion that the press had given unfair treatment to the administration. He contended that an inquiry into its methods would "not invade the freedom of the press."

Burke had things all his way, and finally Minton decided not to push his resolution.

Fight Shifted.

The adjournment tonight shifted to the crossroads hamlets and crowded cities of the nation a battle between the Roosevelt administration and the conservatives of the nation for control of the direction of government.

All the seats in the house and third of those in the senate will be at stake in next fall's elections, campaigns which find administration officials opposing many senators and house members, including Democrats who have opposed administration policies.

The final day of the session served, among other things, to emphasize again the strength of farm influence in Washington. Congress enacted, over the President's veto, a bill to continue cut-rate interest on loans to farmers by the Federal Land Bank.

One of the last barriers to adjournment was cleared a little later in the day by the negotiation of a compromise on a $289,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill.

The nearness of the adjournment hour, which had evaded the leadership like a will-o-the-wisp for three days, brought virtually the entire senate membership to the floor and crowded the galleries. For the most part the chamber was a hubbub of whispered voices, through which business was transacted with difficulty.

Many senators continually sought the floor in last-minute efforts to obtain the passage of particularly cherished bills, or to set their record straight on a variety of issues by short speeches.

In this setting, the senate approved a final compromise on the $3,753,000,000 lending-spend bill by which President Roosevelt hopes to promote economic recovery; overrode the presidential veto; adopted a resolution asserting that "unqualifiedly condemns the inhuman bombing of civilian populations" abroad and attended to many minor matters.

Two senate amendments—one providing $1,800,000 for forestry projects and another appropriating $325,000 for the purchase of additional land for the Tahoe (Nev.) National park—were returned to the house for separate votes.

The conference committee approved a $5,000,000 allocation for reclamation projects in the "dust bowl" area.

The committee also approved a $3,000,000 senate allocation for venereal disease work by the Public Health Service; $400,000 for administrative expenses under the new wage-hour program; $3,000,000 for a new War Department building; $3,000,000 for a new social security building and $300,000 for buildings and equipment at the University of Utah mining experiment station.

The Maloney bill, setting up regulations for over-the-counter dealers in securities, received final approval.

The senate, accepting a house amendment exempting dealers in municipal securities from provisions of the measure, sent the bill to the White House.

Action on Veto.

The bill would authorize the establishment of associations of securities dealers which would regulate their members under the guidance of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Action on the President's veto was completed by the senate with a vote of 57 to 18 to override. The house took the same action yesterday by a big majority. The bill would authorize a two-year extension of 3 1/2 and 4 per cent rates on land bank and land bank commissioner loans. Without the extension, the rates would average 5 per cent or more.

It was an old controversy between the President and congress. Two years ago the same question arose, the same bill was enacted. President Roosevelt vetoed it as a matter of economy, and his veto was set aside. Legislation to make it easy for the farmers always attracts many votes.

No Names Mentioned.

The resolution condemning the bombing of civilian populations mentioned no names, but that did not keep the name of Japan from entering prominently into the debate. Senator King, Democrat, Utah, in fact, demanded that diplomatic relations with that country be severed "until it returns to the ways of civilization."

The anti-bombing resolution, however, was pretty generally pooch-pooched as of no great consequence.

Senator Johnson, Republican, California, whose inveterate opposition to any entanglement in foreign quarrels goes back to the senate's League of Nations fight, scornfully termed the resolution "a pious exclamation on the part of the senate."

Senator Clark, Democrat, Missouri, also an isolationist, declared it was "smug hypocrisy" for the senate to "deplore the use of bombs," while "we go on week after week and month after month selling for the profit of manufacturers the materials of which bombs are made."

The senate also found time to confirm the promotion of Federal Judge Clark, of New Jersey, to the federal circuit bench. It was Clark who, late in the prohibition era, gained much attention by expressing the opinion that the eighteenth amendment was invalid.

Most of the vast lending-spend bill was given final approval Tuesday. The senate-house conferees had bogged down on a question of how $212,000,000 of farm benefit payments should be split up among the growers of various crops. The problem was worked out today to the satisfaction of members of congress from the cotton, corn and wheat sections, each of whom had been trying to get the lion's share for his own constituents.

USUAL COMMITTEE TO PROBE FUND USE

Senate Political Expenditure Group Designation Termed 'Farical' by Many.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—The senate gave its regular campaign expenditure committee the duty today of checking on whether federal funds are used to influence this year's political contests—a procedure that Republicans and some Democrats promptly called "farical."

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the minority leader, had recalled that the committee would report to the next session—long after this year's elections—and said:

"This will be an inquest rather than an inquiry."

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who has assailed any activity by relief leaders in state primary contests, said the senate action was "fooling the people of the country."

"I don't believe it's going to do a particle of good," he said. "We should have passed the Hatch and Austin amendments."

He referred to attempts by Senators Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, and Austin, Republican, Vermont, to attach riders to the relief appropriation acts prohibiting use of those funds for political purposes.

The campaign expenditures committee is appointed every election year to inquire into any reports of "slush funds" or improper expenditures in senatorial contests.

eventual passage of wage-hour legislation was inevitable, and that the south faced the danger of getting a law without sectional differentials.

Rigid Measure.

After a year's fight, the house passed a bill with such rigid wage and hour provisions that even Ramspeck opposed it. The measure got a lone Georgia vote—that of Representative Wheelchel, whose district embraces an important textile industry.

The 75th congress produced frequent tests of the delegation's New Deal regularity.

The bitterly fought court reorganization bill, which appeared early in the 1937 session, brought from Senator George a charge that President Roosevelt had "repudiated" the party platform. Senator Russell never broke his silence on the court issue.

In the house, Cox formed a strong opposition bloc which numbered several others Georgians in its membership. The bill did not get a direct vote in either branch.

Almost simultaneously, the wage-hour battle began, and early in this session, bitter controversy developed over the President's plan to reorganize the executive departments of the government.

The senate roll call came only a few days after the Gainesville, Ga., speech in which President Roosevelt attacked southern opponents of his program. Senator George, regarded by most observers as one of those Mr. Roosevelt had in mind, voted against reorganization.

In the house, Georgians split 4-4. A successful motion to kill the bill by recommitment got the votes of Representatives Cox, Peterson, Ramspeck and Tarver, and was opposed by Representatives Brown, Pace, Vinson and Wheelchel. Representatives Deen and Owen did not vote.

Principal issue of the special session last year was the farm bill, enacted after weeks of debate in the senate and house.

Senator Russell voted against the measure, and Senator George for it, although the latter had made it clear during the debate that he saw crop control as only

HOME TESTED RECIPES

Sally Saver

Of course, just as soon as Sally heard the McGills were back from Europe, she just had to hear all about their trip and to find out how they liked the food in the different countries they visited, and what they liked best.

And of all things, the first thing Mrs. McGill said was that she was "tickled to death to get back to her cornbread and turnip greens," which just goes to prove there's romance at home and you don't have to go abroad for it. We had a good laugh over that, for every one dreams of eating foreign dishes in foreign lands.

Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, during the past six months made a study of economic conditions in Denmark, Sweden, Germany, England and Austria on a Rosenwald Foundation Fellowship, and knowing Mary Elizabeth is an explorer at heart, Sally just knew she'd know all about those grand little native restaurants, and the foreign dishes. And she did!

Mrs. McGill, vivacious and petit, bubbling over with enthusiasm and high spirits, remembering first one grand dish they had in Sweden, then a delicious dessert in England, the sauces and soups in Paris, skipped gleefully from one country to another and back and forth, in a gastronomic way, that had me dizzy, envious, exhilarated, and with an army's appetite, and she brought back some of the most delicious recipes!

She and Ralph "took to Parisian food like a duck takes to water," she said, and "the soups and the sauces they put over their meats in Paris were wonderful. But," she said, "the hardest thing to get in the restaurants was drinking water."

A French Meal.

In a delightful little French restaurant, after a quaintly served and most unusual meal, Mrs. McGill begged for the recipes they had enjoyed so much. The proprietor gave her the following recipe for soup: Make a good rich beef stock. Then tie in a bag a few carrots, some parsley, a little piece of onion, stalk celery, a little piece of thyme, and about 15 minutes before serving time, add them to the soup. Serve a side dish of grated Parmesan cheese with the soup.

After the soup they were served small individual covered earthen pots of stew which had tiny whole carrots, onions and tiny new potatoes in it. The stew had cooked slowly until the meat and gravy were very brown. A fresh vegetable salad accompanied the pots of stew.

The dessert, a rich chocolate custard, was served in individual little copper saucepans. French Veal Stew. Here is another grand recipe for veal stew Mrs. McGill gave Sally. Use 2-1/2 pounds of veal, cut into cubes for stewing. Trim off excess fat. Place veal in stewpan and add a quart of cold water, an onion stuck with a clove, a sliced carrot, a stalk of celery, a bay leaf, a little thyme and 2 tablespoons of salt and a pinch of pepper. Bring to a boil, skim top,

HAGAR'S COCONUT CAKE—Three eggs, 2-3 cup sugar, 2-3 cup sweet milk, 1-2-3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Beat the yolks and one white separately. Stir in sugar, milk, flour, and baking powder dissolved in a little milk. Lastly, beaten white. Bake in round cake tin. Beat to a stiff froth the other two whites. Add 2 table-spoons white sugar, sprinkle grated coconut into the frosting and put between layers and on top of cake. Frosted, the cake is as delicious as it looks.

SALLY SAVER'S RECIPE CONTEST

It's blackberry time in Georgia and the best time in the world to have a contest on new ways to prepare fresh blackberries. Haven't you a good blackberry recipe? Sure you have. Be sure to send it to Sally Saver, care of The Constitution, not later than Tuesday of next week. If it is published in this column, you win a prize of $1.

Trying the Recipes Out on Atlanta

Mrs. Ralph McGill is busy since her return from Europe, where she and Mr. McGill spent the last six months, making some of the foreign dishes they enjoyed so much while abroad. She says she is "having fun" taking her friends with her on a "knife and fork" trip to Europe.

In pie pastry and bake for 20 minutes at 400 degrees. Serve with the veal. Stir 1-2 tablespoons browned flour into the fat and add 1-2 cups of tomato juice, 2 thin slices of onion, a sliced carrot, and a pinch of mace. Return veal to pan. You may add 1-2 minced garlic clove if you wish to emphasize the flavor. Then cover the pan and simmer about 45 minutes until veal is tender. Season the sauce with paprika before serving.

It was exciting talking about the different foods in the lands they visited and even though we can't all go on a trip to Europe, we can take "a knife and fork" trip to any part of the world we wish, just by trying recipes from foreign lands, we'll feel just like Mrs. McGill, and be delighted to get home to our cornbread and turnip greens. Romance is at home, too.

SALLY SAVER'S RECIPE CONTEST.

In Sally Saver's contest this week on suggestions for desserts, Mrs. V. O. Kitchens, 506 Broad street, LaGrange, Ga., sends in an unusual recipe that is a great favorite with her folks and should lend a party air to any meal. When the pie is baked the lower half is custard, and the upper part is like sponge cake.

Lemon Cake-Pie.

1 cup sugar
5 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs (separated)
Juice and grated rind of one lemon
1 cup milk
Mix all the ingredients well, adding the beaten egg whites last. Bake in a raw crust in a hot oven.

One of the prize recipes comes from Mrs. S. E. Ward, 806 East Morningside drive, N. E., Atlanta, Ga. This easy-to-make sherbet requires no stirring and should be a very welcome dessert for these hot days.

Lemon Cream Sherbet.

Ingredients:
1 pint milk
1 cup sugar
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1-2 pint cream
Juice of two lemons
1-2 pint cream
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar.
Method: Add sugar to milk and allow to dissolve. When thoroughly dissolved add lemon rind and juice. Stir while adding lemon juice. Turn into freezer tray and freeze 45 minutes to 1 hour.

Beat egg whites, adding the 2 tablespoons sugar. Whip the cream to a thick custard consistency. Combine with the beaten egg whites. Add frozen mixture and mix lightly. Return to freezing unit and freeze 2 to 2-1/2 hours.

Requires no stirring. Serve garnished with sprig of mint.

Mrs. C. E. Heit Sr., of Midland, Ga., has suggested a unique way to make individual banana pies. It is very simple to prepare and should prove popular.

Banana Puffs.

English Bread and Butter. While talking about England, Mrs. McGill said: "I never knew bread and butter could taste so good as it did in England." They serve bread already buttered over there. First they cream the butter, then take the whole loaf of bread, spread the butter on the bread, cut off that slice, and so on. The bread is sliced very thin and the butter is spread smoothly, and it is really good.

"It is a mistaken idea," Mrs. McGill said, "that the English can cook roast beef. It hasn't any flavor. They don't put garlic in it, or very much seasoning. We didn't have any really good food while in England."

Scotch Broth.

"The Scotch broth, though, was really very good, and is a very healthy soup, especially for children. It is made with a good beef stock, cooked with barley, and thickened with a tiny bit of oatmeal." Mrs. McGill says it is splendid soup, especially when you plan to have a soup, salad, and dessert for luncheon.

In very cold countries, like Sweden and Denmark, they eat very rich, heavy food, and lots of potatoes and fish. The Scandinavian dishes are delectable, and they prepare fish in hundreds of various ways.

Swedish Luncheon Dish.

Mrs. McGill learned to make and enjoy this sort of one-dish-meal affair: Put a layer of boned kippered herring in a dish or casserole, a layer of spinach, and a layer of tomatoes. Pour over this a thick cream sauce seasoned with Worcester sauce and little bit of onion, then a layer of buttered bread crumbs mixed with cheese. Bake until good and brown. It makes an excellent luncheon dish, especially in cold winter. Mrs. McGill said they served it with a green salad, and, of course, the almost inevitable potatoes.

Paprika Schnitzel.

From Germany and Austria, Mrs. McGill brings this recipe for paprika schnitzel: Cut a 1-1/2-pound veal steak into strips for serving. Then roll in flour, seasoned with salt and pepper, brown well in melted fat and remove for Contributions.

An appeal for Atlantans to respond more freely in making contributions to aid war-stricken Chinese was voiced yesterday by Dr. Frank K. Boland, chairman of the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross.

Dr. Boland said the general public of Atlanta and the nation has not grasped the magnitude of the calamity in China, pointing to the fact the Chinese are now suffering in severe floods. "Contributions must come largely from a number of our leading citizens who have broad humanitarian principles," he said.

BUSINESS LEADERS
TO PLAN RATE FIGHTState Officials Will Present
Plea for Support at Session Today.

Business and industrial leaders of Atlanta and other cities in the state will meet today to plan for participation in the south's fight for railroad freight rate equality.

The meeting will be presided over by Chairman Walter R. McDonald, of the Public Service Commission, in the absence of Governor Rivers. The meeting, which will begin at 12:30 o'clock, will be held at the Henry Grady hotel.

Chairman McDonald said invitations have been extended to members of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, members of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, Mayor William B. Hartsfield and city leaders as well as Chairman J. A. Ragsdale, of the county commission, and other county leaders.

"Business and industry is showing marked support to our railroad rate fight," Chairman McDonald said. "We hope at tomorrow's meeting to line up the business leaders solidly for our program."

The Southeastern Governors' Conference already has filed a commodity rate reduction plea with the Interstate Commerce Commission. A plea for reduction in class rates will be filed later.

$40 RENT BILL LEADS
TO DAMAGES OF $450

A damage suit growing out of a four-year-old court fight to collect a $40 rent bill was settled temporarily in Fulton superior court yesterday, but the action to collect the bill was still pending in another court.

T. D. Hudgens, an auto mechanic, was awarded $450 damages by the jury in his $5,000 suit against E. Lee Douglas, Atlanta attorney, and owner of the shop in which Hudgens charged his electric apparatus wires were cut. Douglas immediately filed notice of an appeal. Meanwhile, the municipal court action to collect the $40, instituted by Douglas against Hudgens, is still pending.

THREE LOSE APPEALS
FROM DECISIONS HERE

Three prisoners in the Atlanta federal penitentiary who had sought their freedom on habeas corpus writs lost their appeal yesterday to the United States circuit court at New Orleans.

As a result of the ruling John Irvin and John Keller must serve five-year terms for theft of articles from interstate commerce shipments at Potomac Yards, Va., and John Vermillion must serve a five-year sentence imposed in the eastern Kentucky district for violating the motor vehicle theft act.

City Coal Bill Jumps—
More Vegetables Eaten

Atlantans are eating more green vegetables this summer than ever before, H. J. Cates, head of the city sanitary department, said yesterday.

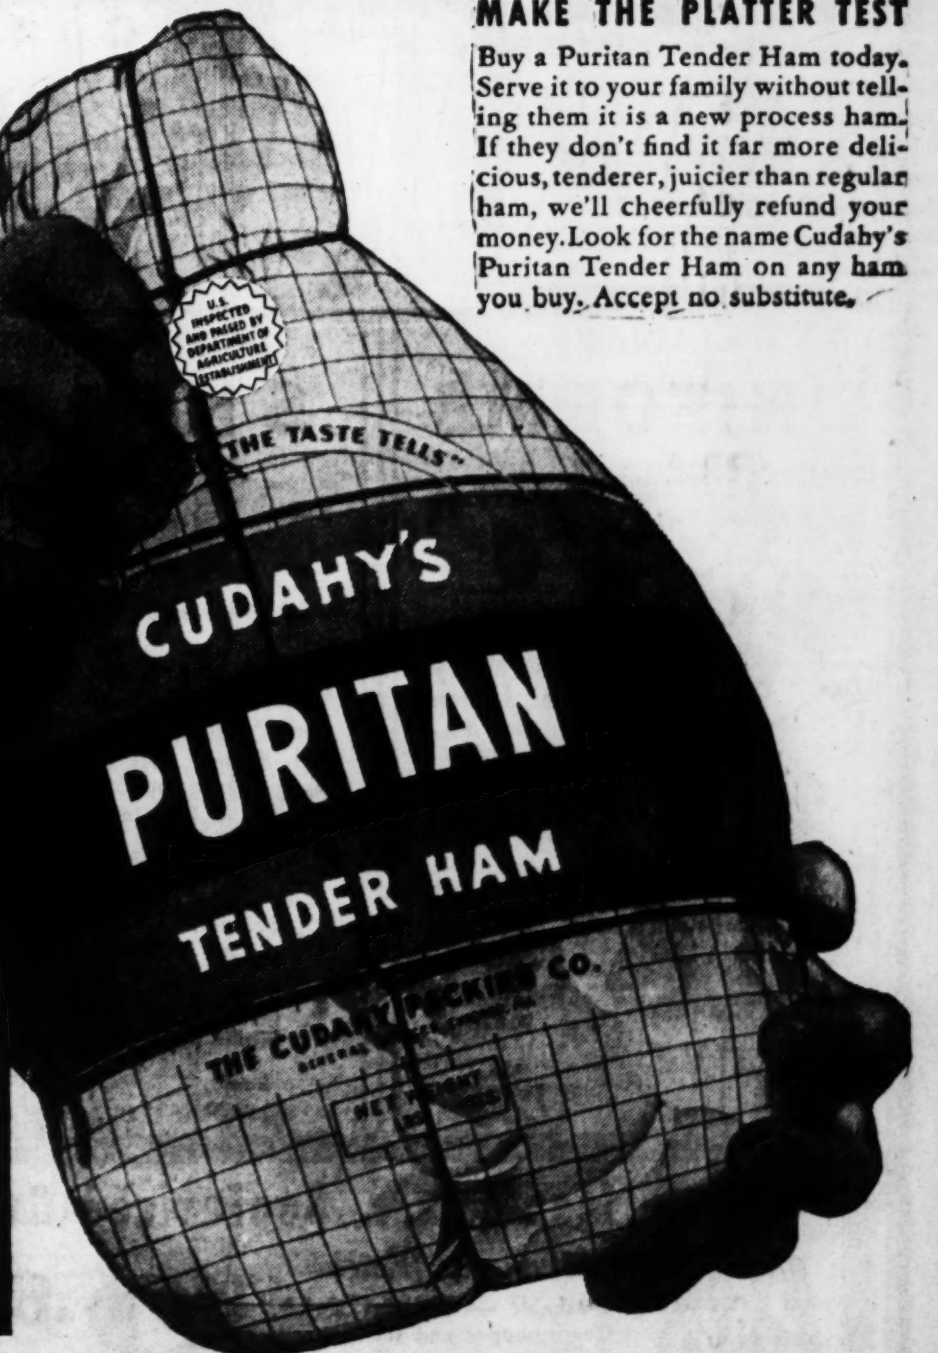

He knows—because the coal bill of the city has jumped. It's taking nearly one ton of coal more per day to burn the green refuse. Watermelon rinds and onion tops offer the greatest obstacles to the incinerators, he revealed. Truck loads of such matter are brought in every day by garbage collectors.

Los Angeles Policeman May Face Life Term.

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—(AP)—Captain Earle E. Kynette, former head of the Los Angeles police intelligence squad, was convicted today of attempted murder and two other charges in the bombing of Harry Raymond, private investigator, last January 14.

Under the verdict Kynette could be sentenced to life imprisonment. He was acquitted of conspiracy to commit murder, a charge which carried a possible death penalty. Lieutenant Roy Allen, fellow officer, was convicted of malicious use of explosives, and Lieutenant Fred Browne was acquitted on all of four charges against the police officers.

Dixie Gives Pointers to Kiddie Revue Stars

Dixie Dunbar, the ex-Kiddie Revue star, who went to Hollywood and made good, happened in on the kiddies of the 1938 show unexpectedly at the Grand theater yesterday and gave the girls and boys a few pointers at the film capital. Dixie told them that dancing for the Scottish Rite Crippled Children's milk fund paid dividends in several ways. Dixie will leave Sunday, she says, for Hollywood, where she will begin work on a series of four college pictures for the Universal studio. The Kiddie Revue stars with Dixie in this picture are Jo Anne Sayre and Janet Rogers.

ROOSEVELTS GATHER FOR WEDDING RITES

the prospective bridegroom and their bridesmaids and ushers set out tonight to another of the dances in their honor.

The exact hour of President Roosevelt's arrival remained uncertain, dependent in part upon the whims of congress, but the final prenuptial party aboard the government yacht Potomac off this peninsula tomorrow night was finally arranged.

Approximately 500 bottles of champagne were set aside for the elaborate reception to follow the noon wedding on Saturday, and menus issued today listed "temperance drinks" for those of prohibition leanings who desire to toast the bride.

Guest lists issued during the afternoon showed that seven Republican Roosevelts—not included in the 20 Roosevelts otherwise listed—apparently had been invited but would not be present.

The list indicated that Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., Theodore Roosevelt III, and Cornelius V. S. Roosevelt had not replied to the invitations issued by Mrs. F. Haven Clark, mother of the bride.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, widow of the one-time Republican leader of the house, Nicholas Longworth, was not listed as among those invited.

DISARMAMENT PLEA MADE BY BRITAIN

move to halt the "mad armaments race."

However, there was no indication the administration considered the time ripe for such an attempt. Secretary of State Hull, commenting after the question was discussed in the British house of commons today, informed reporters that the United States government had not approached any other nation on the subject.

The most recent pronouncement by Hull on the subject was made in a speech at Nashville, Tenn., where he said:

"With the world groaning under the burden of mounting armaments, we are prepared to join with other nations in moving resolutely toward bringing about an effective agreement on limitation and progressive reduction of armaments."

The State Department disclaimed at that time any intention to imply that this government might call an arms conference.

Nevertheless, some students of international affairs regarded Hull's remark as a trial balloon.

Senator Walsh, who piloted the billion-dollar naval expansion bill through the senate, said he thought a world disarmament conference might be a "logical outgrowth" of congressional approval of the big navy program.

"Now that our naval policy has been fixed," he said, "we should lead the way in obtaining a disarmament agreement. I sincerely hope that before the large amount of money necessary to finance the expanded naval program is appropriated, every possible effort will be made to limit naval armaments."

Senator Vandenberg, a member of the foreign relations committee, said he would be in "cordial agreement" if the administration

RURAL POWER LINES EXPANSION MAPPED

Troup and Harris County Program Would Cost $65,000.

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 16.—Plans for expansion of rural power lines throughout Troup county and into neighboring Harris county have been formulated by the Troup County Electric Membership Corporation, which yesterday announced application had been made to the REA for $65,000 to cover cost of a 70-mile project. Approximately 350 additional rural families in the two counties would be served by the proposed expansion, which would include 36 miles in Troup and 34 miles in Harris, F. M. Freeman, corporation president stated.

In Troup, the lines would be strung along the Lagrange-Franklin highway and in the Gray Hill community, with a one-mile extension on the West Point highway. The project would increase rural power lineage in Troup county to 114 miles, and corporation officials estimate about 200 new customers would be served, bringing total number to approximately 500.

Final action on the application is pending completion of plans for routing of lines in Harris county, O. R. Caudle, corporation secretary-treasurer, stated.

SNAPPING SHOALS BODY GIVEN $40,000 FUND

COVINGTON, Ga., June 16.—Announcement of the approval of a REA allotment of $40,000 additional to the Snapping Shoals Electric Membership Corporation has been made by Washington officials. The amount will be used to provide 75 miles of additional rural electric lines to serve 550 new consumers.

The corporation serves customers in DeKalb, Rockdale, Newton, Henry and Butts counties.

TO SEEK APPROVAL OF RURAL LINES

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 16.—(AP) J. B. Polhill Jr., and Judge R. G. Price, officers of the Jefferson County Electric Membership Corporation, left here today for Washington, where they said they will seek approval of 200 miles of rural electric lines in Richmond, Jefferson, Glascock, Burke, McDuffie and Warren counties.

The corporation was formed in 1937 as a project for Jefferson county, but now includes 96 miles of line in five counties with approval for an additional 150 miles, they said.

If approval of the additional 200 miles of line is obtained, electric power will be made available to more than 2,000 rural families in the six counties, the officers said, before leaving Augusta.

3 COUNTIES TO GET RURAL POWER LINES

MARIETTA, Ga., June 16.—Contract for 160 miles of rural power lines in Cobb, Cherokee and Fulton counties will be let on or before June 27, L. R. Langley, Cobb farm agent, said today.

He warned residents of the counties against "fly-by-night" electricians, saying "We hope to work out a co-operative wiring plan for those interested, and through this method believe we can reduce the cost one-third, or more."

OLD-TIME ACTOR DIES IN CHARITY HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—An old-time vaudeville and legitimate stage actor and dancer, John Garrett, 55, who at one time made as much as $1,500 a week, died in poverty today at Bellevue hospital. He had been on relief for the last five years.

He was listed at the hospital as "John Garrett" but acknowledged his identity a few hours before he died. The body was claimed by representatives of National Variety Artists, Inc., who said they would arrange for burial.

FIVE LIVES LOST IN TEXAS FLOODS

Train Plunges 60 Feet into Swollen River.

CLARENDON, Texas, June 16. (AP)—Streams swollen by torrential rain in the eastern Texas panhandle were believed to have taken five lives today.

A family of three identified as Mr. and Mrs. Bert Freeman and their three-year-old son, of Wichita Falls, apparently were swept to death from a bridge near Clarendon. Their automobile, a pair of shoes and a pair of trousers were all searchers could find.

The current of the usually-dry salt fork of the Red river near Wellington balked rescue workers seeking M. V. Griggs, engineer, and C. E. Burton, fireman of a train which dropped 60 feet through a washed-out bridge.

move to halt the "mad armaments race."

However, there was no indication the administration considered the time ripe for such an attempt. Secretary of State Hull, commenting after the question was discussed in the British house of commons today, informed reporters that the United States government had not approached any other nation on the subject.

The most recent pronouncement by Hull on the subject was made in a speech at Nashville, Tenn., where he said:

"With the world groaning under the burden of mounting armaments, we are prepared to join with other nations in moving resolutely toward bringing about an effective agreement on limitation and progressive reduction of armaments."

The State Department disclaimed at that time any intention to imply that this government might call an arms conference.

Nevertheless, some students of international affairs regarded Hull's remark as a trial balloon.

Senator Walsh, who piloted the billion-dollar naval expansion bill through the senate, said he thought a world disarmament conference might be a "logical outgrowth" of congressional approval of the big navy program.

"Now that our naval policy has been fixed," he said, "we should lead the way in obtaining a disarmament agreement. I sincerely hope that before the large amount of money necessary to finance the expanded naval program is appropriated, every possible effort will be made to limit naval armaments."

Senator Vandenberg, a member of the foreign relations committee, said he would be in "cordial agreement" if the administration suggested a disarmament conference.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, said he was "very much in favor" of a disarmament agreement "if it can be made effective without entangling us in other commitments."

"But," he added, "I don't think we should agree to co-operate in policing the world in order to obtain disarmament."

HONOR PATROLMEN END TOUR OF STATE

Schoolboys Spent 10 Days in Seeing Georgia Scenes.

MACON, Ga., June 16.—Georgia's 10 outstanding schoolboy patrolmen, tired but happy, disbanded here after a 1,700-mile trip which started in historic Milledgeville last Thursday. A Junior Chamber of Commerce banquet ended their entertainment.

The boys spent a night at Governor Rivers' home in Lakeland, swam in the Atlantic ocean, climbed mountains in north Georgia, flew in an airplane, were feasted at a banquet, saw the Cyclorama, saw the old mansion in Milledgeville, met Georgia's editors in Swainsboro, and all along the route were entertained by Rotarians, Kiwanians, Exchange Clubs and Boy Scouts.

Leon Harris, Eastman High school boy, who won a medal for "distinguished service," said his biggest thrill was when Governor Rivers pinned the medal on him. Buford Akridge, of Nashville, said his biggest thrill was atop the lofty peaks near Rabun Gap in north Georgia.

Garlin Davis, of Ellijay, said his biggest thrills were the sight of the Atlantic ocean, and the night he spent at Governor Rivers' home in Lakeland.

The boys made overnight stops in Waynesboro, Savannah, Lakeland, Quitman, Atlanta. They attended church Sunday in Lakeland.

Each boy sat in the Governor's chair at the capitol, and all were profuse in praise of Mrs. Rivers after their visit to the mansion on The Prado in Atlanta.

Sergeant O. W. Whiteside, commanding officer of State Highway Patrol, District No. 4, Madison, and Corporal E. S. Burke, of District 2, Gainesville, were in charge of the trip.

As 4-H Club Boys Received Their Purebred Calves

Two of the "pedigreed" Guernsey calves yesterday were the objects of close inspection as 4-H Club boys prepared to draw for ownership. Joe Rhodes, third from left, 14 years old, and Charles Wright, 15, right, were particularly interested in Alberta and Mary, the two calves they hoped would be awarded to them. Looking over the line points of the calves are, from left to right, Miss Opal Ward, of the county agent's office; County Agent S. D. Truitt, Joe Rhodes, Commissioner Troy G. Chastain, secretary of the commission's agricultural committee, and Charles Wright.

Here's another shot of Alberta, one of the 24 "blue-blooded" calves given to 4-H Club members and junior farmers. This time, J. W. Walker, left, and his wife, Mrs. Walker, are inspecting Alberta's good points. The Walkers, both former 4-H Club members, were married while members. Now he's a junior farmer.

4-H CLUB YOUTHS RECEIVE CALVES

Fulton Agricultural Officials See Three-Year Drive Bear Fruit.

Fulton county agricultural officials yesterday launched a movement to develop quality in the county's dairy stock by distributing 24 "blue-blooded" Guernsey heifer calves to 21 4-H Club members and junior farmers.

More than 200 persons—including members of the county commission, farmers, Atlanta bankers and businessmen—joined in the 4-H Club and Junior Farmers' Guernsey field day to eat barbecue and watch the boys draw for the calves.

The calves are all purebred, registered stock. The boys to whom the calves were given, at cost, were selected because of their interest in 4-H Club work and their feed and pasture facilities. S. D. Truitt, Fulton county agent, said.

Distribution of the calves climaxed three years of efforts by the county agricultural department to put such a plan into effect, Truitt said.

"Fulton commercial dairymen have been going outside the state to get quality stock which they should have been able to buy at home," he said. "In this way, we can encourage Fulton's young farmers to breed purebred stock at home. It's just as easy to feed a good cow as an ordinary cow."

He explained that through co-operation of Atlanta banks and business houses the distribution will be made an annual event, the banks and businessmen furnishing the money for purchase of the stock and underwriting the purchase.

"The boys themselves buy the calves at cost," he added, explaining that a $16 down payment will be made at once. Three more payments of similar amounts will be made on each calf over a period of three years.

The calves—ranging in age from four months to one year old—will be bred to 12 pure strain bulls obtained by the Fulton County Livestock Development Committee, a private organization.

County Commissioners Troy G. Chastain, George F. Longino, Dr. Charles R. Adams, Fulton Schools

Superintendent Jere A. Wells, Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, and other officials endorsed the program at the barbecue.

The barbecue and drawing for the calves was held on the Fulton county dairy farm at the River convict camp, where the county's herd of registered Guernsey heifers was on display.

The First National Bank, Trust Company of Georgia, Georgia Power Company, Rich's, Inc., and Sears-Roebuck Company co-operated with the county agricultural department in putting the program into effect.

Those who received the calves yesterday included Charles Wright, of Alpharetta; Raymond Carder, of Ben Hill; Karl Holcombe, Billy Bates, H. V. Shirley Jr., G. W. Walker, all of Alpharetta; Curtis Bishop, William Hewatt, James Millam, H. C. Strickland, all of Fairburn; W. A. Cox, of Roswell; Tom Guillatt, Robert Barnes, L. M. Richardson, of Palmetto, all of whom are purchasing one calf.

Two calves will be delivered to Walton Mansell, of Roswell; Mrs. Houston White, of College Park; William Powell and Joe Rhodes, both of Alpharetta.

INFANTRY SCHOOL COURSE COMPLETED

Graduates Told Nation Must Explore Every Field of Military Endeavor.

FORT BENNING, Ga., June 16. (AP)—Major General John L. DeWitt, commandant of the United States Army War College at Washington, told graduates of the Fort Benning infantry school today that a nation must constantly explore every field of military endeavor if it would avoid stagnation.

"Otherwise," said General DeWitt, "war finds that nation with antiquated material, conceptions and methods, the most important part of our peacetime job as soldiers is to prevent that sort of thing happening. In spite of all the handicaps and discouragements under which this labor is sometimes performed, it can be done."

A total of 178 student officers of the regular and tank classes received diplomas in military strategy in exercises climaxing a nine-month course.

LEVY S. ROZIER TO PAY FOR CRIME

Attacker of 7-Year-Old Girl
Dies Today.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., June 16. (AP)—Levy S. Rozier, sentenced to death for attacking a seven-year-old white Waycross girl, waited in Tattall prison's death cell tonight for the final steps to the electric chair tomorrow morning.

The 36-year-old Bacon county farmer, who said insanity had caused him to commit two crimes on small girls, was brought here from Waycross where he was sentenced to die after unsuccessful appeals to the state supreme court and to Governor Rivers. He will be the first man to be executed at the new state prison.

Rozier was convicted in Ware superior court May 12, 1937. The jury did not recommend mercy, and Superior Judge M. D. Dickerson next day passed the mandatory sentence of death.

Previously, Rozier had been sentenced to 20 years for an assault in Laurens county. In both cases he pleaded insanity.

After conviction in Ware county, he unsuccessfully appealed the death sentence, and later he sought executive clemency from Governor Rivers, who declined to interfere.

LUTHERANS RETURN DR. J. W. BEHNKEN

Synodical District in Southeast Urged; Would Include Augusta.

ST. LOUIS, June 16. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. J. W. Behnken, of Chicago, was elected today to his second three-year term as president of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states.

Dr. Behnken, former pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church of Houston, Texas, was returned to office on the first ballot by delegates to the synod's triennial convention. He polled 489 votes of approximately 530 cast in the election.

A report by F. C. Streufert, of St. Louis, secretary of missions, listed expenditures of $414,838 for missionary work last year.

Streufert directed attention to missionary opportunities at home and urged the synod enter the second century of its existence with "renewed interest and consecrated zeal to reach out to the unchurched within its bounds."

The east, particularly the Atlantic district, the southeast and southern California offer "outstanding missionary opportunities," Streufert added. He urged the convention to establish a committee, which is to report later, will recommend setting up such a district to include North and South Carolina. It would extend north along the Shenandoah valley to Harrisburg, Pa., east to Trenton, N. J., and south along the Delaware river, including Camden, N. J. Augusta, Ga., also would be included.

Candidates Find It Stuffy in Town And Heigh Ho for the Country

Terry, Streaky, Peter Rabbit and Tiny Tim Advance Their Programs While Reposing in the Cool and Protective Lap of Mother Nature.

Editor's Note: An entirely new note was struck last night in the race for Oomph of Constitution comic characters. Certain of the younger element, tiring of politics, offered a refreshing program which they said they would put into effect if any one of them were elected by Constitution readers in the balloting on Election Day, July 4. The Colonel will tell you all about it in his booming, vivacious way.

By COLONEL WHOOPEN BLAST,
Political Commentator Extraordinary.

It will be a pleasure for all of you, I know, to get away from the complexities of the political arena, with its conniving and manipulating, and out into the fields and woods, the inviting streams and pools of the great outdoors. For that's where you're going if you trail along with the Colonel. Let us proceed, hand in hand, with gay hearts and blustering dogs. Let us, in other words, heigh ho for Mother Nature, chiggers and stone bruises without further ado.

Candidates Terry Streaky, Peter Rabbit and Tiny Tim, with the benign approval of that inveterate out-of-townsmen, Tarzan, brought forward their program, on which they hope one of them will be elected, in their first political rally of the Comediana campaign last night.

"We find it stuffy around town," announced Peter Rabbit, "and we're forced to say all this dueling and such leaves us cool if not definitely cold. We want to get out among the pines and the leaves, the kudzu and blackberries, the tender clover and succulent poison ivy—that's where we want to get."

"Life, we find, is too smoky around town, too full of cinders and honking motorists, too well furnished with traffic lights and triple-parkers, to suit our simple tastes. Brethren, we wish—to coin a strikingly original phrase—to get away from it all."

Enthusiastic indorsement followed from the lips of Candidate Terry. His sturdy, youthful frame unconsciously illustrating the good effects of his program.

"We stand for more adventure," he announced. "There is none of the Babbit about us. The merits of trade over adventure, and plenty, we agree, but our platform calls for the type of adventure which the cave-man knew of old, the age-long contest with the forces of nature. We wish to push forward over the high seas, to breast rushing waters and defeat hurricanes."

You'll have to admit that's showing the right spirit, friends, even if it does sound a trifle damp. The old bones and rusty hinges of your correspondent—once so powerful—positively wince at the thought, but your correspondent is true to his duty of reporting events in The Constitution tent exactly as they occur.

Very well, then, yodels and away over hill and dale and through shady woods we go, carefree save for an occasional thought for the endurance of our arches.

"We're expecting the solid vote of all Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls," declared Candidate Streaky. "Outdoor sports, and plenty of 'em, is our program. Swimming, boating, fishing—that's our stride. And we will make it a point, if any one of us is elected, to have plenty of time available for all kids for making things, Indian tepees, moccasins, war-bonnets and bows and arrows."

"We're going to contend on woodcraft, too. You hear all this talk these days about war and the bombing of cities. Maybe they'll blow up everything before they get through, and we'll have to start over out in the woods. So we're offering free lessons in fire-making, trapping, the building of tree houses and sewing of skins. We're the most forward-looking group of candidates in the race."

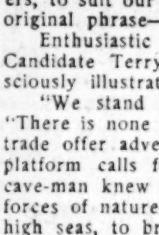

There was objection from the rear of the hall. Freddie and Fritz, in chorus, demanded particulars.

"The animal family wants to know where they get off in this thing," Freddie said. "Here we are, a peaceful, quiet, just going around having fun, never bothering anybody except to play a joke now and then. What're you going to do about us if all this happens?"

Tarzan came forward to speak reassuringly for the movement he sponsored.

"We understand the point you are making," he said. "That will be all right. Our program calls for treating all well-disposed animals with fairness and consideration. I'm sure Freddie and Fritz haven't anything to worry about."

Out into the fresh air, after the turgid atmosphere of political battle, goes the race for Oomph. Follow it along, and get some oxygen, as it proceeds toward Election Day, July 4.

U. S. BANK RESERVES

WASHINGTON, June 16. (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board said today the lendable excess reserves of the banks increased $20,000,000 to a total of $2,730,000,000 in the week end of June 15.

The increase was due primarily to treasury spending of federal funds. The board also reported the investments of the 12 federal reserve banks showed an increase of $87,000,000 in holdings of federal bonds and decreases of $60,000,000 in treasury notes and $27,000,000 in treasury bills.

Tech Naval Students Go Aboard, 'Up the Hook' for Annual Cruise

Uneventful Trip From Atlanta to Charleston Reported; They're Off Now To Pick Up Northwestern, Harvard and Yale Units.

By WILLIAM G. HASTINGS,
Special Correspondent With the Georgia Tech Naval Reserve.

ABOARD U. S. S. ARKANSAS, CHARLESTON HARBOR, June 14. (Air Mail).—One hundred Georgia Tech Naval R. O. T. C. students, in command of Lieutenant Smith, of the United States Navy, were transported by the tug "Umpqua" to their respective ships this evening.

They "upped the hook," as the more nautically seasoned call the anchor, at 9 o'clock for their annual cruise.

The boys enjoyed an uneventful trip from Atlanta to Charleston by train, but at the moment there is some measure of bewilderment among those who are on their first cruise. Billets are being allotted and living quarters for the next three weeks sought.

Two ships are making the trip from Charleston, the battleship Arkansas and the destroyer Roper. Ninety Tech men are aboard the Arkansas while 10 have been assigned to the Roper.

The cruise will proceed from Charleston to New York where the destroyer Tillman will join the detachment.

Here, naval R. O. T. C. students from Northwestern University will be taken aboard. From New York the ships continue to Boston where a Harvard unit will embark. A unit from Yale will complete the personnel of the cruise. Then it's "Anchors Aweigh!" for Havana, where three days of shore leave will be granted the students, after which they head north to Annapolis.

During the three week's cruise, the naval R. O. T. C. students will receive intensive training in naval tactics, including the thrilling experience of competitive firing of naval guns in target practice at sea.

NAZIS ORDER SIGN FOR JEWISH HOUSES

Another Decree Hits at People's Livelihood.

BERLIN, June 16. (AP)—Nazi Germany intensified its campaign against Jews today by closing additional loopholes to their means of livelihood.

The government published a decree designed to assure at least a complete boycott of Jewish business by the German civil service and members of the Nazi party.

It defined minutely what constitutes a "Jewish" business house and stipulated that it be identified by a special sign or seal.

Uncertainty whether an establishment is Jewish or not is to be eliminated and a register of all Jewish businesses is to be kept for public inspection.

SENATE ASPIRANTS SPEAK TOMORROW

Camp, McRae Campaign Near Boyhood Scenes.

Two candidates for the United States senate, District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp and William G. McRae, will campaign tomorrow in the areas in which they spent their boyhood.

Camp will address a meeting of his friends at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Jonesboro. His speech will be broadcast to the state over station WSB.

At 2 o'clock McRae will speak at Rockmart where he was born and spent his boyhood. Following the senatorial candidate's speech, aspirants for judgeships and other offices will speak briefly.

CHINESE SCAN SKIES HOLDING FLOOD FATE

Next 48 Hours Crucial; Six
Japanese Bombers Shot Down.

SHANGHAI, June 17. (Friday) (AP)—The weather of the next 48 hours was looked upon by Japanese army engineers today as holding the fate of vast territories of north and central China yet undamaged by floods.

The Japanese and hundreds of thousands of Chinese peasants in flooded and threatened areas anxiously scanned the skies, aware that more rainfall now would raise the waters of the Yellow and Yangtze rivers and sweep away weakened dikes.

The mighty silt-laden Yellow river—"the ungovernable"—as Chinese have known it through the centuries—spread death and destruction over a 500-square-mile area, reaching southeastward through Honan province villages and farms to surge against the walls of Chowkiakow, nearly 100 miles from its normal banks.

50,000 Lives Lost.

An estimated 50,000 lives already have been lost. Approximately 300,000 Chinese have been driven from farms and homes in 2,000 villages.

Canton, far to the south, started a joyous celebration after the local government announced 13 Chinese pursuit planes had followed and shot down, one by one, six Japanese bombing planes which had attacked a railway north of the city. After nearly three weeks of virtually continuous attacks on Canton by Japanese planes, this was the first pursuit by Chinese craft.

Meanwhile Japanese warships slowly steamed up the Yangtze, mopping up along the route, and a Japanese column attacked Tsien-shan, in Anhwei province 85 miles northeast of Kiukiang.

Pay Heavy Toll.

Hankow dispatches said the Japanese were paying heavily to maintain their foothold on the banks of the Yangtze, with intense Chinese machine-gun fire taking a heavy toll. Japanese attempts to land troops from transports were reported thwarted.

Chinese military advisers said the body of Japanese troops in the north had fallen back to high ground around Kaifeng, east of Chengchow, in the Yellow river valley, leaving several thousand Japanese troops trapped between the flooded area to the south and Chinese defenses still holding along the railway.

The average human body contains enough fat to make seven bars of soap, and enough iron to make two small nails.

A TOSS WITH FORTUNE

The Roosevelt administration appears to have staked its all upon the success or failure of a single throw of the dice with fortune, this summer. Should circumstance play into their hands it will, in all probability, mean renewal of popular strength for the New Deal. Should fortune fail, that same New Deal will face a people disillusioned, desperate and outraged.

For the Roosevelt policy has decreed that the new depression which has hung its pall over the nation for months past shall be attacked with the old weapon of pump-priming. Still pinning its faith to the theory that by spending they can bring prosperity, the leaders of the government are launching a program that will toss approximately $25,000,000 a day into the hopper.

If business improves during the summer it will be loudly proclaimed that the gains are solely due to this spending program. If business fails to advance, if it continues to recede, the nation may rise in righteous wrath and turn against those who have squandered more billions of taxpayers' money in fruitless endeavor.

According to the latest poll of the American Institute of Public Opinion, published on this page today, 62 per cent of the voters do not think that government spending will help to get business out of its present slump. Thus it is shown that a majority of the nation is not in sympathy with the administration policy in this instance.

Analysis of the Institute poll reveals interesting data. Thus a small majority of Democrats—52 per cent—favor the spending program. Republicans oppose it by the overwhelming ratio of 9 to 1.

Dividing the vote by income levels, it is shown the well-to-do oppose the program 77 per cent; the middle economic classes oppose it 68 per cent, while the lower income group, including those on relief, favor the plan by a 53 per cent majority.

The Institute also reveals that an estimated four million voters who were for Roosevelt in 1936, have left his camp since. Of these four million, 80 per cent say they abandoned the Roosevelt standard chiefly because they do not approve the heavy spending program.

It seems self-evident that, in beginning the new spending-lending campaign, the Roosevelt administration is staking its future entirely on a single throw of the dice with the gods of economic fortune. If fate plays with them, and business indices turn upward during the summer, they win. If fortune deserts the New Deal banner and business does not show improvement, they lose.

And the bout with political fortune is costing the taxpayers of the United States—which means all of us—something more than three and a quarter billion dollars.

POWER OF RIDICULE

The house of representatives this week saw a practical demonstration of the effectiveness of ridicule. Representative Short (Republican), of Missouri, a former preacher from the Ozarks, pirouetted in a burlesque toe dance in an aisle of the house chamber. The mimicry, aided by satiric verbal thrusts, killed a resolution to establish a federal bureau of fine arts.

The performance enlivened the house proceedings and rang another victory bell for the power of laughter. For nothing can quite withstand the force of laughter, be it tangible or intangible thing. Kings have quaked before it, and emperors have slain men who started laughter rolling.

There are all kinds of laughter—friendly, cynical, cheerful, cold, to mention but a few. But the cruelest, deadliest laughter of all comes from ridicule.

History is filled with instances where ridicule brought about change, transitions which didn't stand a ghost of a chance until people laughed. Many mysterious elements raise man above the beast. Laughter is well up front in the parade.

What does anyone hear of the girls who are only bridesmaids this June because they switched from silk stockings to lisle to save China?

Hard times are conducive to long life, say the actuaries. That we should live to help posterity pay our depression debts is a solemn thought.

Workmen wrecking a building in Paris uncovered $80,000 in a wall. Still, there must be less drastic ways to hit the jackpot.

WHEELS WITHIN WHEELS

International debts have assumed, in recent months, a tremendous importance in the world scene. Clashing interests and divergent viewpoints have brought the involved question of national financial obligations to the forefront in any picture which attempts to evaluate the panorama of world affairs today.

So involved is this debt question it is difficult to point to any specific case as the key-stone of the problem arch.

There are the debts owed to other nations by the now-extinct nation of Austria. The bulk of this old indebtedness is to Britain. The German government is attempting to dodge responsibility for payment, claiming that there is no legal precedent under which the Reich may be held accountable for the obligations of the nation she wiped out through the process of anchluss.

Germans assert that when Britain made the Boer countries of South Africa parts of the British empire, she did not assume the old Boer debts. They claim that the United States government did not consider itself responsible for the debts of the Confederacy after 1864.

Britain, however, says circumstances in the Austrian anchluss are different and that these old cases do not apply. His Majesty's government at London is pressing for payment of the Austrian debts and threatens to invoke a trade war if Germany does not acknowledge the debts. Britain, in particular, plans a clearing arrangement against Germany, with the backing of other guarantors, particularly France and the Netherlands. The probable result of this would be a loss to German trade that could never be offset by any economic gains Hitler might gain in the east.

Here, however, new complications arise. For it will be difficult for Britain to insist on payment of the Austrian debts and continue to default on her so-called war debt to the United States.

Ambassador Kennedy is supposed to be seeking a solution of this war-debt problem. Yet, any arrangement Britain could possibly propose to this government could not be expected to be popular with the rank and file of American voters, very few of whom understand the complications, circumstances and problems of the war debt situation. Therefore it would be politically impossible for President Roosevelt to approve any logical settlement—certainly not in an election year.

Thus the debt puzzle, starting in erstwhile Austria, finally reaches home to the United States and to every citizen of this country. What the solution will be remains for the future to disclose. The situation as it stands today merely adds another cause for perplexity among diplomats and statesmen and illustrates the impossibility of one nation's affairs not, eventually, affecting every other.

NEW HIGHWAY PERIL

A new complication arises in construction of the international highway between North and South America. Dr. Herbert C. Clark, director of the tropical section of the Gorgas Memorial laboratory in the Panama Canal Zone, says construction of the highway will require United States physicians to become proficient in the treatment of tropical diseases.

Dr. Clark warns that the highway will be a greater distributor of animal and plant diseases than trains or airplanes. Also some persons will travel by burro from South America to the United States. He points out that these travelers will not stop for customs but will leave the highway for the desert and open country to avoid inspection while passing the frontier. In so doing they will bring many tropical diseases into western states.

He points out further that it will be possible for persons to become infected with yellow fever and be back in this country before completion of the period of incubation. The doctor's statements strike no optimistic notes. On the contrary, they raise rather gloomy questions in the minds of thoughtful persons. Will the highway become a genuine menace to public health? Will residents of this country find themselves gripped by new and strange illnesses? Will the link between two great continents extend frontiers for stealthy, creeping death?

Yet none can deny the importance or the value of the international highway. The doctor's statements merely suggest once again that man always pays for progress.

Norris, of Nebraska, thinks we should cut out the pious protests or stop selling war material in Asia. We can be a little absent-minded, can't we?

The mutineers of the bounty reached Pitcairn Island in safety. However, radio swing programs have caught up with their children.

British politics have ever been a mystery to Dora. So much is said of the prime minister and nothing of the pump.

Editorial of the Day

THE LUCK OF GREEN

(From the Daily Oklahoman.)

Gillette, of Iowa, is by no means the first winning candidate who had the support of William Green, of the American Federation of Labor. Thus far the labor leader has been picking winners with unerring accuracy. Perhaps no other political experimenter has made a higher percentage in the winning column in the primaries of the year.

Possibly Green is merely able to see in advance which candidate is most likely to win and then throw his support to the one who might win without his support. Or possibly he is able to throw sufficient strength to a doubtful candidacy to turn the balance in favor of the man he has seen fit to support. But in either event he usually is found in the winning camp.

This success of Green in the field of political adventuring deserves the consideration of labor politicians everywhere. It may indicate that the rank and file of labor is far more conservative in ideals and methods than the more radical laborites have supposed. It may mean that most of the labor element prefer the careful methods of Gompers and Green to the furious, breast-beating tactics of John L. Lewis. It may mean also that the practical politicians who have been courting the Lewisites under the impression that the force which makes the most noise commands the most votes may have been courting a mere labor mirage. And it may mean nothing except that William Green is remarkably successful in guessing winners.

AMERICA SPEAKS

Lack of Faith in Spending Policy May Be One Factor in Continued Slump, Survey Finds; 62% Still Opposed to Pump Priming As Spending Begins.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, June 16.—As the Roosevelt administration prepares to prime the business pump with approximately $25,000,000 a day for the next six months, many observers have wondered why business psychology has not improved and production indices turned upward in anticipation of the huge federal spending program.

One factor which may account for the absence of a "lift" in business optimism is revealed in a current study of public opinion conducted by the Institute.

This study shows that the great mass of American voters still have no great faith in the theory of spending their way out of depression. When the question is asked "Do you think government spending should be increased to help get business out of its present slump?" the results show 62 per cent against spending, 38 per cent in favor. The typical voter believes that pump priming is only a temporary "shot in the arm" which brings no lasting recovery. "We tried that before, and it didn't work," is the commonly expressed view of the majority.

This negative attitude may help to explain why the proposed four billion dollar spending program has not stimulated a more bullish recovery psychology, or caused a rush of buying in anticipation of steady price rises.

Six surveys taken. Six times in recent months the Institute has measured the public's attitude on the spending issue, asking the same question in each survey. Every study covered a typical cross-section of the nation. The trend shows that at the end of last March, 63 per cent of voters were opposed to increased spending. Then, in April, the President championed the spending program in a fireside chat. Opposition promptly dropped five points, to 58 per cent. But the effect of the speech was short-lived. Today's

Youth steps on life's stage,
It's graduation week,
Theirs is the golden age,
Theirs is the goal to seek.

Youth, hearts eagerly
Waiting in union,
Facing the mystery,
Give them your benison.

Welcome them gladly
Onto life's battlefield,
Maybe they're bringing
New strength the fight to wield.

Tell them the world is theirs,
With all its joy and pain;
Theirs are the golden stairs,
Theirs is the crown to gain.

As Busy
As Beavers.

Now, someone is going to have to advocate a law to set maximum hours a beaver can work in a companion clause on minimum wages.

For the Grazing Division in the department of the interior has decided to put beavers to work in Wyoming and Idaho, building dams in an attempt to stop erosion of the soil.

This is undoubtedly in competition with human labor and, likewise, in interstate commerce. For two, as is mentioned and there will be no arguing that some of the waters the beavers are assigned to dam would eventually, if left to their own courses, cross a state line.

Probably the beavers are to be employed in preference to WPA workers. And who can blame the department? For no one could ever accuse WPA workers of being "as busy as beavers."

The Heebie-Jeeby.

Charles F. Kettering, research chief of General Motors, told the following story while he was in one of the lighter moments, after he had delivered the baccalaureate address to the Georgia Tech graduating class.

A certain man had been to an extended party and had imbibed over the usual quantity of liquid refreshments provided. He had so far over-indulged, in fact, that when he woke up the following morning he was still in that state which can be described in no milder terms than inebriated.

As he opened his eyes to the bitter light of the morning—after he saw something sitting on the footboard of his bed. A most terrible creature.

Pink and yellow and green it was. It had a fearful assortment of horns springing from its head—antennae, with a bulbous, glaring eye at the end of each waving tentacle.

The man spoke to the fearsome apparition.

"Get off my bed," he screamed. "You'd better go," he shouted again.

No result. "I warn you, whatever you are," he cried, "You'd better leave me alone."

Still no result. Then, in cunning, pleading tone the man said:

"Listen, you. If you don't get off my bed and out of here, quickly, I'll take a couple of aspirin tablets and sober up. Then where'll you be?"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

States' NEW YORK, June 16.—The New Deal would Rights have fared better up to now if President Roosevelt and those who speak for him had had the candor to say in the beginning and to repeat from time to time that the states had forfeited their rights in proportion to their refusal of responsibility and their inability to meet their obligations to their people. Instead the procedure has been to undermine or crash through their rights and pretend that they are unimpaired—a course which smacks of cunning and suggests unspoken motives. The end of this would be the end of the states by a process of crumbling whereas it would be better if the people were to face the fact that they are citizens of a nation and not of their respective states and prepare their minds for the abolition of the states. Not many people were state-conscious when Mr. Roosevelt took office, and comparatively few are now, although in the last few years some have learned that certain states offer them advantages in taxes.

Florida and Nevada frankly invite persons of wealth or moderate income to move in and escape certain taxes which are imposed on their home state and they have laws which enable such refugees to establish fictitious residences. Connecticut and New Jersey offer similar inducements to certain classes of New Yorkers. On the other hand, many states impose transit or import taxes on commerce from other states, and three at least have tried to enforce immigration restrictions based not on character but on the national immigration regulation which requires a foreign immigrant to prove that he or she is not likely to become a public charge. Colorado enforced this one with soldiers.

Saving Money The reservation of the fiction of states' rights has been the worst handicap to the effort to design national legislation intended to improve the condition of the nation and the whole people. As was said in the case of the NRA, there is a chiseling percentage which can bail up or thwart any program which rests on the honor system. Men and corporations in highly competitive business who have to reckon costs in cents and mills, not because they are greedy but in order to meet their rivals' prices, can be overblamed for deserting one ground to settle in another to save money.

By Moving The pretense of good will and great respect for the states, while the Roosevelt administrations have persistently demanded laws giving the national government financial and political mortgages on the states' authority, gives rise to a suspicion that the New Deal is trying to put something over, even a dictatorship. The arrogant, bullying attitude of the President's favorite political slugs has increased the alarm, although it must be admitted that many localities, such as Jersey City, Louisiana and others, have made anything out of it, New York city, have local strong-arm statesmen who do the same.

Democracy Vs. Locally such conduct is just Dictatorship the working of democracy, but nationally it is called dictatorship. But it does not follow that a mere reorganization of the country into departments, zones or districts combining several states in one, and honestly enlarging the authority of the national government to abolish outmoded restrictions would lead to a dictatorship. The departments or whatever, could still retain all the authority they were fit to use as sections of a nation while waiting obstructive and in some cases passing for the good of all.

And certainly there would be no loss of effectiveness, because the states, with their predatory and wasteful political machines, are inharmonious, inefficient and in many respects unable to meet the obligations which parallel their rights as states. Many responsibilities of the states are in default now and never will be met again, and some rights have been whittled away, but the method has been one of stealth or deceit, and those who have clamored about the rights of states, but have not been the people are so little state-conscious.

If Mr. Roosevelt had put the proposition to them they would have indicated a degree of assent which would have made it easier to put through measures for national recovery and reform. But he didn't put it to them. Instead he has tried to put it over on them. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

Mississippi Flood.

In 1541 the Mississippi valley was in the grip of its first recorded flood. At one point De Soto, French explorer, found it 60 miles wide. It is calculated that there has been a serious Mississippi flood of an average of every four years since then. Most of them, of course, before the deforestation, intensive cultivation and drainage, etc., which are blamed today for floods in the popular mind.

When You Cage Birds That Foraged for Themselves, You Must Buy the Feed

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

A few years ago, anybody who advocated government ownership of the railroads was called a radical, a Socialist or something worse. Now that hard times, bonded debt, truck competition and control by government laymen have combined to bankrupt the roads or keep them operating at a loss, the most conservative financiers and statesmen seem to agree that government ownership is the only way out.

This doesn't mean that the roads couldn't save themselves if given an opportunity. It means only that the methods required to save them are not "politically expedient." And this means that the roads will probably be sacrificed to politics.

There isn't any secret about it. Almost every day some news item or editorial comment in the public prints gives warning of what is coming. And since there is no clamor of protest or alarm, it is evident that few of our people have given the matter enough thought to realize what the change would mean.

When TVA created a vast artificial lake, it flooded great tracts of farm and timber lands and thus forever removed them from the tax books. Uncle Sam doesn't pay taxes. In partly-flooded counties, the property above water must assume the tax burden once carried by the flooded areas.

The same thing will happen when the government takes the railroads. Every hamlet in the land now soaks some railroad for a large part of its revenue. The total tax paid by the roads to all divisions of government is an enormous sum, and every cent of it must come out of our pockets when the roads quit paying.

Moreover, operating losses will increase, and all probability, and taxpayers will make up the annual deficit. Our government isn't noted for making a profit on its projects.

Democracy is nearing bottom if it must harm all the people to save a vital industry, or let it go to ruin because practical methods of saving it aren't good politics. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Lachish.

NEW YORK—One of the most significant things in Palestine since the granting of the Mandate has been the development of archaeology. The Mandate for Palestine contains an article which prescribes the principles to be observed in the law concerning antiquities; and it is one of the trusts of the Mandatory to ensure that all persons and associations have an equal opportunity of carrying on archaeological research and every year half a score or more expeditions reveal some treasure of history.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all the discoveries made during the last 20 years has been that of Lachish, the fortress of Judea, which has been an object of search for nearly a hundred years.

Some 33 years ago, Flinders-Petrie (that wonderful veteran of science who, at the age of over 80, is still yearly digging in Palestine) dug away the hill of Tel-el-Hesi in the Judean foothills, and believed that he had uncovered Lachish. Yet an element of doubt remained, and a few years ago one of Flinders-Petrie's former assistants, Mr. Starkey, started to dig another mound in the Judean hills, Tel-el-Duweir.

His excavation has established, beyond a peradventure, the site of the fortress which is mentioned often in Egyptian monuments from the early part of the second millennium B. C., played a great part in the Israelite invasion of Canaan, and, after being besieged by Sennacherib, was burned to the ground by Nebuchadnezzar in the time of Jeremiah. The expedition has not only revealed layer upon layer of civilization during 1,200 years of history of the town, but it has given us for the first time authentic documents written in Hebrew before the first captivity, and so makes an unparalleled addition to our knowledge of Hebrew writing in the days of the prophets.

"Potted Letters." The documents, which were interpreted by Professor Torczyner, of the Hebrew University at Jerusalem, are written with a pen on broken pieces of pottery. The use of jar fragments in place of papyrus was common in times of emergency also in Egypt; and these "potted letters" date from the years of Nebuchadnezzar's campaign. They are, in fact, reports sent from officers of outposts to the Judean commander in Lachish, and they amplify with extraordinary vividness the story that is found in the Book of Jeremiah of the prophet Uriah, who spread messages "that are not good and weaken the hands of the country."

Altogether, nearly 100 lines of the writing have been read. They are written in various hands, proving that writing was common in that age; and they are in a picture.

Many illustrious men have belonged to this brotherhood of which Lord Baldwin speaks—Dickens, Balfour, Jefferson, Washington, Adams, Franklin, Lee, Wilson, Baldwin, MacDonald—bookmen all! And by the side of these names of great men might be written the long, long list of less famous persons, even quite obscure men and women, not able to own many books, but able to enjoy the best that has been thought and said.

How refreshing to go into humble homes and find a few great books! If one will look long enough, he will find the paths that lead from such book shelves out to places of illustrious service, either in the past or in the future. In these hurrying days, may we find time for that physic of the mind so essential in a well-balanced program of life.

McCALL SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR

Cash Kidnaping Is Titled
"Most Cold-Blooded" by White-Haired Judge.

MIAMI, Fla., June 16.—(P)—Franklin Pierce McCall was sentenced to death today for the kidnaping of Jimmy Cash, a crime the presiding judge called "the most cold-blooded thing I ever heard of."

Jack Kehoe, defense attorney appointed by the court, said he had followed McCall's wishes and there would be no appeal, but late today C. A. Avriett, a Jasper, Fla., attorney, said he had been retained by the family to seek clemency before the state pardon board.

There was no sound in the crowded courtroom when white-haired Judge H. F. Atkinson rose to his feet, recited that McCall had pleaded guilty to kidnaping for ransom and asked:

"What have you to say why judgment should not now be rendered and sentence imposed upon you?"

McCall, a farm laborer and minister's son with no previous criminal record, only shook his head.

The judge then directed that McCall be electrocuted at Raiford state prison at a time to be set by the Governor and concluded, "may God have mercy on your soul."

The tense-lipped prisoner was taken back to his sunless cell in the county's skyscraper jail to await removal to Raiford and execution, the earliest date of which could be the week of June 27.

Avriett said McCall's wife visited him in his cell today a few minutes before he was taken into court to hear the death sentence pronounced. It was the first time she had seen him since his arrest.

"I still love you dearly," Avriett quoted her as telling her husband.

Atheism Declared Greatest Issue Faced by Religious Forces Today

Materialism Manifested in Everyday Actions Cited Before
Presbyterians; Evolution and Criticism of Bible No Longer Considered Menaces.

Atheism yesterday was termed the "greatest problem facing religion today" by Dr. William V. Gardner, pastor of First Presbyterian church, in an address before the annual state conference of Presbyterian Young People now in session at Agnes Scott College, Decatur.

Evolution and criticism of the Bible, Dr. Gardner declared, were no longer considered as menaces to religious belief. The real problem, he said, is the materialism manifested by people in their business, their pleasure, their hopes and wants.

"The battle line of religion today is drawn on the doctrine of evolution and it is not on criticism of the Bible. These two have long since disappeared," the speaker said.

"It lies in the fact that religion has become separated from the midst of our practical day-by-day affairs. It is this every-day practical atheism that makes up the religious frontier today."

Approximately 300 young people from Presbyterian churches of the state are attending the conference which closes Tuesday. Courses offered are: "The Christian in Modern Society," taught by Dr. M. M. McFerrin, Augusta; "Personal Christian Living," the Rev. J. H. McKinnon Jr., Cairo; "Vo-litional Guidance," Miss Irene Hope Hudson, Louisville, Ky.; "Training in Devotional Life," Miss Katherine Danforth, Columbia, S. C. Other instructors are Miss Nell Morton, Richmond, Va., and the Rev. S. Wilkes Dendy, Dalton.

Bible teachers include Dr. William M. Elliott Jr., pastor of Dr. Hill Presbyterian church, Atlanta; Dr. R. T. Gillespie, Thomasville; the Rev. Marshall C. Dendy, Gainesville, and Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of North Avenue church, Atlanta. Classes in Church Life are being taught by the Rev. G. M. Wilcox, Macon; Dr. B. H. Tenney, secretary of the committee on stewardship and finance, Atlanta; Dr. Lacy Moffett, China, and the Rev. J. M. Carr, Decatur, regional director of religious education for the synods of Georgia and South Carolina.

Officials of the conference include Mrs. W. A. Turner, Neuman, dean; Miss Eleanor Bell, Columbus, social director; Miss Gene Hopkins, Griffin, pianist; the Rev. Fulton C. Lytle, Griffin, music; Rev. M. A. MacDonald, Moultrie, counselor for boys; Coach Walter Johnson, Presbyterian College, Chubbuck, director; Mrs. J. W. McQueen, Brunswick, adult adviser, and Mrs. Julia C. Bagnal, Decatur, director.

CONTROL OF BIRTHS URGED FOR SOUTH

Former Emory Professor Addresses Student Christian Conference in N. C.

Application of birth-control methods to cure the "present plight" of the south was advocated this week by Dr. Mercer Evans, former head of the department of economics at Emory University, in an address before the Southern Student Christian Conference at Blue Ridge, N. C.

The speaker, now director of the Resettlement Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture, declared that agriculture was miserably failed to sustain the south, and that so far as industry is concerned, the south has become "the haven of runaway sweatshops of the north."

"The wisest alternative to its present plight is the widespread application of birth control methods and the limitation of the population increase," he said.

Dr. Evans said legislation such as the wages and hours bills is beneficial, but added he recognized real criticisms against it. "The lumber industries in the south pay wages that are 45 per cent lower than those paid in other sections," he pointed out. "What will happen to these companies if they are forced to pay double their present wage rates?"

More than 500 students from 80 colleges heard Dr. Evans charge that the south is fighting every effort labor makes to organize and make higher wages. "All the troubles that have grown up in labor-employer fields in the north are being repeated here," he said.

Guy Woolford, a past president of the national organization, who was awarded a fellowship for distinguished service in office management, recalled his early experiences with the association. Brooke told of the association's growth, and R. M. Holmes discussed the program of the Montreal convention.

Beverly S. Embry said the activities of the Atlanta chapter during the summer months would be confined principally to increasing its membership.

STODDARD NAMES ARMORIES' BOARD

Adjutant General To Ask for $1,500,000 in Federal Funds for Program.

Appointment of a five-member state armory commission to direct a program providing for new armories for the units of the Georgia national guard was announced yesterday by Adjutant General John E. Stoddard as he planned to lay before authorities in Washington an application for $1,500,000 in federal funds to carry out the program.

General Stoddard said he planned to spend the latter part of next week in Washington working on the program together with that involving the establishing of a new national guard camp site near the War Department and the forestry division of the Department of Agriculture have signed a tentative agreement to develop the camp site.

Meanwhile Director Charles N. Elliott, of the State Parks Department, made public a list of the projected improvements in the state park system for which Governor Rivers will ask federal funds during his stay in the national capital next week.

Two Atlantans are on the new armory commission. They are Councilman John A. White and T. Guy Woolford. Other members of the board are Dr. C. C. Harold, of Macon; John R. Thompson, of Savannah; and E. B. Jernette, publisher of the Thomasville Times-Enterprise.

Both General Stoddard and Director Elliott will join Governor Rivers in Washington next Thursday. Discussing the park program yesterday, the two state funds sought by the state would be for the development of established parks as well as for new areas.

One contemplated project is expenditure of $564,000 for Little Tybee Island State park in Chatham county. This includes $90,000 for a bridge, construction of 150 cabins at $225,000, and building a swimming pool, bath houses and boat houses.

The other expenditures were listed as follows:

Indian Springs State park, Butts county, $106,000.

Fort Mountain State park, Murray county, $562,400.

Vogel State park, Lumpkin and Union counties, $149,600.

Santa Domingo park, Glynn county, $32,300.

Alexander Stephens State park, Taliaferro county, $22,300.

Little Ocmulgee State park, Taliaferro county, $154,900.

Pine Mountain State park, Harris and Meriwether counties, $291,500.

Chewahaw State park, Dougherty county, $157,900.

Lakeside State park, Lanier county, $342,700.

Black Mountain State park, Rabun county, $508,600.

Sitton's Gulch State park, Dade county, $523,100.

Old Mill State park, Hancock county, $194,000.

Governor Troup Natural Resource Reservation, Treutlen county, $23,800.

Jefferson Davis Memorial park, Irwin county, $48,000.

Wayne County Natural Resource Reservation, $34,300.

Winona Wayside park, Ware county, $52,400.

Kolomoki Mounds State park, Early county, $258,800.

For King George State monument, McIntosh county, $25,100.

Elliott also will ask for $100,000 to erect 1,000 historic markers in Georgia.

He had prepared financial data on operation of the state parks for last year, and so far for this year, which he said would show the federal government the projects to be requested could and would be self-liquidating.

Prominent Educators Contribute to Book Being Prepared for Printers; Authors Dedicate Work to Dr. McPherson Who Taught Them at Athens.

CARROLLTON, Ga., June 16.—Professors L. E. Roberts and J. C. Bonner, of West Georgia College's social science department, are preparing to send to printers a volume which probably will be used as a textbook in Georgia schools.

The book, entitled "Studies in Georgia History and Government," is a compilation of contributions from a group of leading Georgians and is regarded as one of the most complete in its field.

It is dedicated to Dr. J. H. T. McPherson, now in his fiftieth year as head of the history department of the University of Georgia.

Dr. McPherson taught both the authors, and they have honored him by dedicating the volume to him.

Several of their own contributions are being included in the work by the authors.

Professor Bonner wrote the chapter "Populism and the Governmental Career of W. J. Northen," while Professor Roberts contributed "Sectionalism and Constitutional Reform in Georgia, 1798-1845."

President I. S. Ingram, of West Georgia College, wrote a chapter, "A History of Agricultural Education in Georgia Secondary Schools."

Others contributors include Professors Tom Askew, of Armstrong Junior College, Savannah; Walter Martin, of the University of Georgia; Albert B. Saye, of Harvard, and Charles G. Cordie, of Richmond Academy.

It is anticipated the work will be used as a supplementary text in "Contemporary Georgia," now being taught in the University System of Georgia.

Among those underwriting the publication are Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System; Dr. George F. Peabody, Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia; former Governor Clifford Walker, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Marion Smith, chairman of the board of regents, and Orville A. Park, leading Georgia attorney.

COUNCIL WIDENS CHURCH BY-LAWS

Moderator's Power Cut by Congregational Body.

BELOIT, Wis., June 16.—(P)—The general council of Congregational and Christian churches today amended its by-laws to abolish the moderator's sole power of nominating half the membership of the council's nominating committee for the purpose of bringing more democracy and decentralization of power.

Roger W. Babson, Boston ecumenist, earlier had abandoned his intention of leading a fight for his one church, one vote amendment. He had proposed to increase the council membership from 800 to about 6,000, each church having a delegate. He retired from the moderator's chair today to "assure unbiased action," although declaring "Congregationalism needs to be humanized, not mechanized."

Elizabeth MacRae Boykin Gives Home Decoration Hints For Brides

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK—Yesterday, on the whole, was rather a busy day. My first surprise came when my brother handed me a cable which requested that he leave immediately for Europe on business. He calmly remarked, "I shall sail tomorrow on the Manhattan."

Even I, who think I can make arrangements fairly quickly, was a little appalled at the thought of all the arrangements that would have to be made in 24 hours. However, he was calm as a May morning and seemed chiefly concerned about some changes in the car which he gave me last year.

We went uptown together and I had a final fitting of the dress I shall wear at John's wedding. Of course, I had to face the usual battery of cameras, for if one newspaper has a photograph, all of them must have it. However, that was over very soon and I finished other errands, met my daughter, our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lindley, and Miss Hickok, at the Biltmore at 12 o'clock. That is too early for most people, so we had the dining room almost to ourselves, which made our luncheon very pleasant. After lunch, I went to the office and after dropping my bags at the cottage, I spent a couple of hours with Mrs. Scheider. She seems to improve every day, but will not be allowed even to sit up for another week.

I signed my mail and went over the letters which had come during the day, so we are really starting off today with a comparatively clean slate. In a few minutes I'm off to see Mrs. Scheider at the hospital. I shall come back here to collect our bags and then Mrs. Somerville and I will leave on the 1 o'clock train for New York. I shall see my children in New York this afternoon and evening and take the midnight to Washington.

A very interesting book has been sent to me by the Fashion Group, Inc., of New York, to which I have belonged for many years. It is a study made particularly to help young women who wish to enter lines of work dealing with the fashion industry. This industry includes not only women's wear, but home furnishings of every kind. Margaretta Stevenson's analysis of possible jobs is very interesting and should fill a real need for young women preparing for this type of work.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

SIMPLE REMEDIES FOR OZENA.

A foul discharge coming from one side of the nose suggests the possibility of a foreign body lodged in the nose, especially in the case of an infant or young child. But in some instances it is a manifestation of nasal diphtheria. Occasionally such foreign body is animal—an insect, intestinal worm, even the developing larva of a fly (maggot)—and the most serious even fatal symptoms are produced by the presence of an animate foreign body in the nose. The importance of a careful examination, by the aid of headlight, speculum and other instruments used by physicians equipped to deal with nose and throat conditions, is obvious. The laity has been oversold on specialism. A competent general practitioner or family doctor can diagnose and treat all of these everyday nose and throat conditions as well as any what-have-you specialist. After all, Mrs. Whitecollarman and Mrs. Executive merely betray their cheap snobbery in running to the specialist every time the baby—well, whenever a word of medical advice is needed. That sort of thing may have impressed the neighbors in the days when bloomers were news; today it is as distinctive as lipstick.

Atrophic rhinitis ("dry catarrh"), the usual cause of ozena (foul odor) calls for painstaking cleansing of the nasal passages daily, as already described. This is the best way to check or control the foul odor from such condition.

Aside from the cleansing, or following such cleansing of the affected mucous membrane, one or another of the simple remedies here suggested may be used with advantage.

First, when the nose is quite clear and as free from secretion as possible, apply some precipitated sulphur by means of an insufflator or powder blower. One application of the powdered sulphur each alternate day is sufficient, and it may be continued for several weeks. This is a very effective remedy for atrophic rhinitis but also in atrophic rhinitis, with or without ozena.

Second, following the cleansing of the nasal passages apply a suitable oil to soothe and protect the mucous membranes. For this purpose it is better to avoid the mineral oil preparations (petrolatum, paraffin oil) so often used in nasal sprays, drops, inhalants, nebulizers. One good agent for the purpose is a solution of iodine in sesame oil—one grain of iodine to the ounce of oil. Another is common kerosene. One of the best is a purified or nearly deodorized preparation of it may be obtained from the drugist. Most agreeable to use and perhaps most effective remedially is a bland oily solution containing menthol, phenyl salicylate and vitamin D in combination. A few drops of either of these oils may be put in each nostril night and morning, or any of them may be applied by means of a nebulizer.

Many victims of chronic "dry catarrh" have experienced much benefit from applying once or twice daily, by means of a spray, a warm solution of a rounded teaspoonful of cane sugar in two fluidounces of water (about one-fourth of a glassful).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
EYES IS EYES.

Please state whether brown eggs are better than white eggs. We think brown eggs taste better than white eggs. Their yolks are richer looking, too. (M. and B.)

Answer—Nutritively there is no difference.

Odd House.

May I suggest that the kitchen of "Odd House" be built on the street side and the living room at the back overlooking the rear yard or garden. (Mrs. G. S.)

Answer—Thank you. An excellent idea. My enthusiasm for a house without a dining room has been severely repressed lately, on the ground that it isn't done. I wish our readers who have built or lived in homes without dining rooms would give us some ammunition for the book.

Steady Nerves.

I know your teachings, yet I wish I could have what I call steady nerves. (Mrs. T. S. A.)

Answer—Send 20 cents and a stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for a new booklet "Nerves and Nutrition"—it will tell you how.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

EXERCISE CAN BE A COMPLETE WASTE OF TIME.

When calisthenics doesn't improve your figure you are wasting your time exercising. The main idea back of exercise is to give you a beautiful figure, and when it fails to do all you expect you look for someone to blame . . . me!

Let's stop right here and see whether you are doing your exercises right or wrong. You may be doing too many of the wrong type for your figure problems. Bending is fine for your waist, but it will not reduce your tummy. Stretching is an ideal general exercise, but it does not slim the hips.

There are only certain positions in which specific muscle groups can be exercised. The hip measurement, which includes hips and buttocks, can best be slimmed by leg swinging in which the leg is raised to a 45-degree angle, and by rolling.

You might think that the high kicking would at the same time beautify the thighline, but this is not nearly as effective as swinging the legs from side to side to exercise the inner and outer thigh muscles. Circling the legs with knees flexed also strengthens the thigh muscles and improves this area.

The waistline can be slimmed down in short order by the movements which twist, bend or stretch, and an exercise involving all three measures is triply slimming.

This is a very effective thigh exercise.

The abdominal muscles are exercised by either direct or reflex contraction. The position involving least strain is lying flat on the back with the knees flexed and feet on the floor. In this position contract and release the muscles by touching the small of the back to the floor. The second position is on hands and knees, reflexly contracting the abdominal muscles. The third position is to hang from a bar or to stretch the body upward in complete extension. This last position also reflexly contracts the abdominal muscles.

Since the muscles of the chest, arms and shoulders are correlated in action, they can be treated as a unit in exercise. Arm exercises with the arms held at shoulder level strengthen the triceps muscles located on the backs of the upper arms and also tone the pectoral muscles to improve the position of the bust. The pectoral muscles are inserted in the upper arm, and therefore when the arms are extended straight overhead, pull is exerted on the pectoral muscles.

Don't let exercise be a waste of time. You can make your figure program 100 per cent efficient by adopting the best mechanical positions for streamlining.

PLEASANT HOMES

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN.

There's more to this business of getting married than dodging the rice and old shoes. Getting settled in a new home is the big adventure. It's as much fun as the bride as playing house is for a little girl. And don't think that that brand-new bridegroom doesn't enjoy it too. He'll be as willing as anybody to skip in order to get those new lamp bases on the budget.

A Death of Lamps.

Speaking of lamp bases reminds us of one certain problem in getting settled in the new house. There's almost sure to be a dearth of lamps, no matter how many or how beautiful were those that came in as gifts. Because it takes a lot of lamps to light properly. Then there are always sure to be certain spots that need very special lamps.

Usually the only answer to that problem is to make the shade to fit the spot. For a really handsome shade, this is practically always the best way because then you can get a shade that matches both base and the room it's going to be used in. If you're in need of a shade for a really fine lamp, don't use artificial silk. It won't stand the heat and wear well enough to justify your labor. Pure silk is safest, and remember that the detail will determine the final beauty of the shade—nice braids and bindings give professional finish. Novelty shades that aren't meant to last forever and a day can be of most anything you happen to think of.

Lamp News.

Here are some of the odds and ends of lamp news we've picked up lately: Self-tone buccades are very effective in of whites and natural colors. If used with a dramatic contrasting color braid. Dark satin is stunning for lamp shades if lined and bound with a light color. Loose overskirts are gay for summer lamp shades—they're tied on with a sash of contrasting ribbon. Lamp shades that button on the side with big contrasting buttons are fresh and crisp looking. Plain white shades with a chain of artificial flowers around them for summer had a nostalgic charm. Rope edge shades in which the top rim of a lamp shade falls in a decorative design over the shade. Old-time ribbon beading run with narrow black ribbon finishes the ruffles top and bottom on a sweet shade of pink organdy.

All these are bright, bride ideas, because they suggest ways to make the details in the new home live up to the imposing big things they have to start life with. We also offer them because we're old-fashioned enough to believe that modern brides want to "make something" for their new homes—just as brides have throughout all the ages past.

We have a bulletin entitled "Making Your Own Lamp Shades" which tells you how. This will be sent on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope. Or go to the art needlework department of your favorite store for information about silk lamp shades. There you'll be able to see the loveliest materials and trimmings. And don't let the per-yard price frighten you. Remember it takes such a little bit of material—usually less than a yard!

LIFE'S MOST EXCITING MOMENTS! SNAP THEM WITH YOUR CAMERA

ACTION PICTURES ARE EASY TO TAKE.

Stop it with your camera—Dick's first wild sail in his new boat—Marjorie's record-breaking dive! Such action shots are a lasting thrill—and they're simple to take. Sharp images of moving objects can only be secured with quick shutter actions. All you need to do is to open your aperture and step up the shutter speed. The subject should be in the sunlight. If it is a dull day, use your widest aperture with fast film.

When possible, focus ahead of time on the spot where you want to snap the action. If your camera is not built for fast speeds, choose gentler moments—the boat gliding, the diver preparing for her leap.

The risk of movement showing in a negative is lessened as the distance between the camera and the moving object is increased. It is also lessened as the angle at which the object comes toward of

Beauty According To You

How Is Your Summer Eye-Q?

By LILLIAN MAE.

Your eyes tell the story. Bright, sparkling eyes always beguile, while dull, unattractive orbs throw a damper over any vivacity there may be in the make-up of their owner.

A few moments night and morning spent in care and protection of your eyes will be greatly rewarded with results accomplished. First, there is the eye bath with a soothing lotion and the application of an eye cream to keep away those telltale wrinkles.

I'll tell you about a splendid herbal eye bath, which carries its own cup as an ornamental part of the bottle itself. You'll love the way in which it takes away the tired feeling and leaves a delightful sparkle.

With finger tips, massage your eye area with a rotary movement, starting at your temples, then stroking inward under your eyes and outward over your lids. I have a grand eye cream for use in so ironing out eye-lines.

After this treatment, your orbs are ready for a glamorous, though natural-looking make-up. A lash grower and darkener is just the trick. Apply it with a small brush, using an upward sweep. While darkening too light lashes, it encourages growth, causing them to be longer and more silky. It does away with the necessity of mascara, and, used on the lids, lightly of course, gives them the allure of a shadow. Of course use just enough to beautify your lashes. Don't cake it on.

If your eyes are too deep-set, powder your lids lightly, placing your shadow high, near your brows. And I've found a successful trick for my under-eye puffiness. Try it yourself—just a touch of rouge there, in addition to powder, of course. If your eyes are set too far apart, keep your shadow close to your nose, but if on the other hand they are too close together, start your eye shadow in the middle of your eyelids and bring it out to your temples.

Perhaps you like to use different shades of eye shadow for different colors of dresses or accessories. I can tell you some very striking shadow colors to wear with green, the new yellows, and bluish-greens. These are particularly delightful and effective with evening dress.

If your spring "Eye-Q" isn't all it should be, phone me at the office of The Constitution for further information concerning these items mentioned above, and see if the interest displayed by boy friends doesn't pick up. After all, regardless of your hidden charms, if you have weak, watery and unattractive eyes, the gentlemen won't wait to discover that your heart is large, tender and pure gold.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

The leader among the boys in our set is a swell fellow, good looking and good mannered. He is popular with girls and boys and has dates with the nicest girls in town. My family doesn't want me to date him because of his family background. His parents and his grandparents didn't have a very good standing up all the time. Should a boy be judged by his family background when he's okay?

BUNCH HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS.

ANSWER:

I'd say your respective parents are in better position to answer this question for you than an outsider who doesn't know the whys and wherefores of the boy's background. In democratic America every generation stands on its own feet and however humbly born a boy may be, he can rise above his family's estate, step with the best without fear or favor, provided he has gentlemanly instincts and good character.

On the other hand it's perfectly natural for fathers and mothers to be wary of their daughter's dating a boy whose background is cloudy. There are always involvements which young people don't reckon with and the parents are looking further ahead than daughter does. Parents know that a boy is likely to be tarred with his family stick and if his family is immoral, or immoral, if it has an unsavory reputation, the lad's good looks and good manners may be merely a veneer on the surface of something that's undesirable.

There's no reason to snoot a boy because his parents and his grandparents were too poor to pay for education; no reason to snoot him because they didn't have a grade social position. Plain poverty will deprive people of these privileges and poverty is no disgrace. So a boy that comes of good clean stock, poor but honest, ignorant but high-minded can well afford to be judged by his background. He has nothing to hide.

However, most young girls believe that smooth manners and a handsome face make a man and a gentleman and while they are in this phase they had better accept their parents' judgment as to whom they shall date. Later, perhaps, when they are discriminating, they may choose their own companions. Isn't that cricket?

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I know my husband loves me but he does things that I can't understand. Sometimes ago he set out to make me jealous and ended by destroying my trust in him. He was penitent and promised that he would never again offend me. He didn't keep his promise; yet he wonders why I don't act wildly in love with him. We have only been married three years and if this keeps up our marriage will be wrecked. I believe you can help me. I'm counting on you.

MRS. B. D.

ANSWER:

Have a heart for a poor man that doesn't feel sure of himself or of you. Don't you know that his fiendish desire to make you jealous is a pathetic effort to prove to himself that he's the apple of your eye? If you just turn in and give him the assurance that he's bidding for, you won't hear a peep out of him. He's greedy for affectionate attention and you're being giving him starvation rations. So laugh off the old offenses and insure against new ones with large premiums of love and kisses.

Bridge Lite

By HAROLD SHARPSTEEN

BRIDGE PRIMER.

It is seldom possible or practical for opening bidder to reveal the full strength and character of his hand on the initial bid.

One of the principal duties of partner is the obligation to respond whenever possible so as to afford opener another opportunity to bid if he desires.

Responder is equipped with two bids, known as non-forcing responses, which do not require opener to rebid. They are: Single Raise.

One Notrump Takeout. Other than a pass, these are the only two first-round non-forcing responses in bridge.

NOT ALL NEGATIVE.

A single raise guarantees little more than normal trump support . . . Q x x or x x x . . . and may be regarded as virtually a sign-off bid. It is generally considered the weakest and least encouraging of all responses, especially when there is no intervening bid. One honor trick minimum may be expected.

One notrump takeouts carry more encouragement than single raises for the simple reason that all notrump takeouts should not be unequivocally regarded as negative bids.

Notrump takeouts are sometimes preferred to suit raises holding normal trump support; and suit takeouts holding a biddable suit. Lacking the proper requirements for another bid, responder is often forced to bid one notrump.

MINIMUM NOTRUMPS.

With no intervening bid, responder bids one notrump, following partner's one suit opening, holding as little as a king in one suit and a queen in another. Protection for all unbid suits is not necessary. The Culbertson requirements for the notrump takeout, when second-hand passes, are: 1 to 2 1/2 honor tricks in the hand. One honor trick divided in two suits.

K x . . . J x . . . J x x . . . Q x . . . J x . . . J x . . .

Two four-card suits headed by queens.

When partner opens the bidding with one heart, no intervening bid, partner responds one notrump, holding:

(1) S-K 6 3 2; H-8 5 3; D-J 6; C-Q 4 2.

(2) S-K 6 3; H-8 5; D-A 6 4 2; C-8 4 3 2.

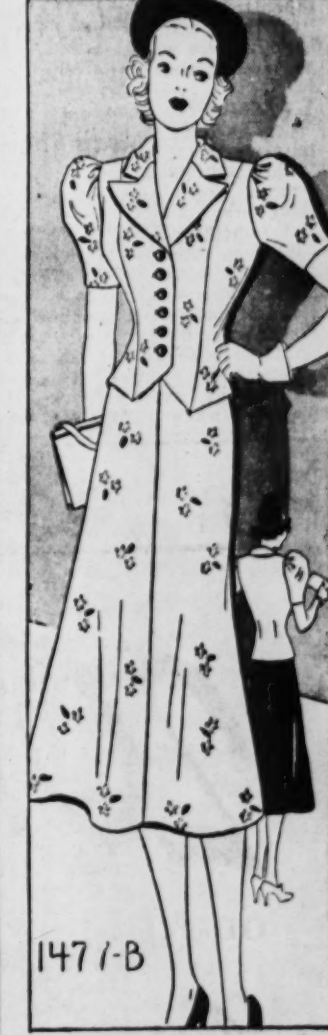

(3) S-6 3 2; H-8 5; D-Q J 4 2; C-K 4 3 2.

(4) S-Q 10 6 3; H-8 5; D-Q 9 4; C-10 9 4.

When partner responds with a notrump takeout following an intervening bid, is another story. Till tomorrow—

Sally Describes Charming Costume Selected by Yesterday's Bride

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Mrs. Bennie Teasdale Candler became the bride of the handsome Philadelphia, Howell Hanson, yesterday morning, she looked so utterly charming that Sally Forth cannot resist painting a word picture of her costume for you. She chose for the quiet ceremony, which assembled only the immediate families at the Emory University chapel, a stunning three-piece suit of pearl gray basket weave sheer wool, the short sleeves of the coat being fashioned with V-shaped godets of white tulle. Her small gray straw sailor, softened by a gray veil, was held in place by a band of violets across the back, and her accessories were in gray. Enormous purple orchids graced her shoulder.

Mrs. Oda T. Sperl, Mrs. Hanson's sister, who stood with the couple during the ceremony, wore a similar model of white basket weave, with a straw sailor and all accessories in white. Her flowers were a cluster of white orchids.

A wedding breakfast at the Biltmore hotel followed the chapel ceremony, after which Mr. Hanson and his bride left for New York to sail for a honeymoon in Europe. On their return they will divide their time between Atlanta and the groom's home in fashionable Ardmore near Philadelphia.

Mrs. Hanson, who is one of the most beloved and admired members of Atlanta society, entertained at a beautifully appointed dinner Wednesday evening at the Biltmore in compliment to the group of distinguished relatives of the groom who came from the east to attend the wedding. For this occasion, she wore an exquisite costume of white satin printed in bold black figures, the slim lines of the sleeves being cut to mould her figure. When it grew cool on the terrace where the dinner was held, yesterday's bride donned a smart brief jacket of similar material, featuring epaulettes of luxurious white fox.

she became a bride. It was also worn by her mother, Mrs. I. T. Alderson, when she was Beulah Humphreys, of Texas, and became a bride. The something new will be the bride's dress and veil and the something borrowed will be a string of pearls which belongs to her mother, Mrs. A. T. Pennington.

Stallings-Ellis Rites Solemnized At Calvary Church

Miss Evelyn Stallings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Stallings, became the bride of Robert Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ellis, at a beautiful ceremony taking place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Calvary Methodist church.

Dr. W. M. Barnett and Dr. Walt Holcomb officiated in the presence of a large assemblage of friends and relatives. Mrs. L. T. Duke and Mrs. N. G. Baggett gave a musical program prior to and during the ceremony.

The choir of the church was decorated with arches covered with white flowers and ferns. Palms were massed in front of the arches and were interspersed with six Russian cathedral candles holding white tapers. In the memorial windows and in the balcony pastel shaded garden flowers were effectively arranged. Clusters of white roses marked the pews of the church.

Ushers were Henry Ellis, Guy Bagwell, Herrick McConnell and Herbert Tatum and groomsmen were Howard Ellis, I. O. Teasley, Olin Wallace, Tully Brooks, LeRoy Ellis and Walt Williams.

Miss Edith Stallings, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. J. P. Baker, Misses Elizabeth Young, Esther Morrison, Mary Davis, Jeanne Webster and Vencie Ellis. They were gowned alike in models of frosted organza in pastel shades, fashioned with basque waists and long, full skirts and each carried a floral fan. Miss Stallings wore blue; Misses Young and Morrison were in pink; Mrs. Baker and Miss Davis wore orchid; and peach organza fashioned the gowns of Misses Webster and Vencie Ellis.

The lovely bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Frank Coyne. The bride wore a becoming model of white silk lace, fashioned semi-princess and posed over white satin. Her illusion veil fell from a coronet of tulle, satin and valley lilies and she carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Stallings entertained at a reception at their home on South Gordon street. Easter lilies and pastel-shaded gladioli adorned the reception rooms and the bride's table was centered with the three-tiered cake, placed on a mound of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Stallings received her guests in a model of hyacinth blue chiffon, worn with a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Ellis, the groom's mother, wore navy blue chiffon and her flowers were gardenias.

Assisting at the reception were Mesdames Von Thompson, E. T. Stallings, Frank Rosier, Cora Davis and J. W. Allen.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Ellis left on their wedding trip through the North Carolina mountains to the northlake region of Wisconsin. Mrs. Ellis traveled in a becoming cobalt blue cape ensemble with navy blue accessories and she wore a corsage of orchids. Upon their return, they will reside at 1711 South Gordon street.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Helen Webster and Miss Jeanne Webster, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Baker, of Cedar-town; Miss Esther Morrison, of Tate, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ellis, of Alpharetta.

Miss Bierman Weds Mr. Amovitz At Jewish Progressive Club

Miss Roslyn Bierman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bierman, of this city, formerly of New York city, and Morris Amovitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Amovitz, of Atlanta, were married on Wednesday evening at a beautiful ceremony, taking place at the Jewish Progressive Club.

Rabbi Harry H. Epstein performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of friends. A musical program was given prior to and during the ceremony.

The wedding party descended down an improvised aisle, the posts of which were strung with white satin ribbon, and took their places in front of an improvised altar at one end of the large banquet hall. Handsome palms, interspersed with candelabra holding gleaming white tapers, formed the altar and vases of calla lilies were placed at either side.

Ushers were Dr. Morris Tarrant, Sam Goldstein, Buster Herman and Isadore Left and groomsmen were Robert Gerson, Robert Gordon, Louis Freeman, Charles Gordon and Joe Brondy.

Miss Lee Bierman, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor and Mrs. Sam J. Amovitz was matron of honor. The bridesmaids included Misses Dot Frankel, Rose Bernstein, Helen Hillman, Betty Plaskick and Aaronette Silverman.

Miss Bierman wore coral marquette, fashioned princess style with off-the-shoulder neckline, and carried hallmarks roses and delphinium. Mrs. Amovitz was gowned in canary yellow organdy, trimmed in sky blue, and her flowers were souvenir roses and delphinium. The bridesmaids were dressed in similar models of aquamarine mousseline de soie, trimmed with pink ribbons and forget-me-nots at the neckline, and they carried bouquets of Premier roses.

Little Herscheline Bergman was flower girl and Harold Amovitz carried the ring in the heart of a lily. Others included in the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. E. Skott, grandparents of the groom.

The lovely bride entered with her mother and father, and they met the groom and his best man, Sam J. Amovitz, his brother, at the improvised altar. She was a lovely picture in her gown of white lace and tulle, fashioned over a satin slip. Her cap was of lace with a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Bierman, mother of the bride, wore blue lace with a girde of fuchsia and blue crepe and her flowers were roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Amovitz, mother of the groom, was gowned in dusty rose lace with inset of tulle, and her corsage was of roses and valley lilies.

A banquet reception followed the ceremony. The tables were decorated with plateaux of colorful spring blossoms. Later the couple left on their wedding trip to Miami and Key West, following which they will reside at 504 Boulevard.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. S. H. Copey, of Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Cecile Cohen and Mrs. Philip Bodney, of Charleston, S. C.

Annual Garden School Opens In Athens

ATHENS, Ga., June 16.—(AP)—Gardens, like human beings, have definite personalities, Hubert B. Owens, of the University of Georgia department of landscape architecture, said today.

Speaking at the opening session of the third annual garden school, Owens said gardens were necessarily limited by site and climatic conditions.

Owens said the modern trend was to make gardens "a place to be lived in, a setting for the house and a transition between it and the outside world; not an impersonal ornament just to be looked at and not really used."

A. D. Taylor, president of the American Society of Landscape Architecture, discussed landscape architecture and its place in the scheme of living. Frederick G. Peck, member of the university landscape architecture department, listed balance, rhythm, sequence, form and color as essential characteristics of all design.

Other speakers on today's program included Mrs. Reynolds Flournoy, president of the Garden Club of Georgia; Mrs. M. P. Jarnagin, of Athens, chairman of the garden school committee, and Dr. T. H. McHatten, of the university department of horticulture, director of the school.

Garden enthusiasts toured Athens gardens late today, and attended a banquet. Later the group heard Taylor give an illustrated lecture on landscape architecture as it applies to national parks and forests.

Friday's concluding program includes addresses by Owens, Peck and a final lecture by Taylor. Mrs. Anson H. Smith, of Dedham, Mass., is to discuss flower arrangement.

Mrs. Candler Weds Philadelphian At Ceremony at Emory Chapel

MR. AND MRS. HOWELL ROSS HANSON.

The marriage of Mrs. Bennie Teabaut Candler, widow of William Candler, to Howell Ross Hanson, prominent business leader of Philadelphia, Pa., was quietly solemnized yesterday at the Candler Theological chapel at Emory University, with the members of their immediate families present to witness the ceremony.

Mrs. Candler was given in marriage by her son, William Candler, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his cousin, E. Irving Hanson, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chambers, son and daughter of the bride, her sister, Mrs. Oda T. Sperr, and William McCreary, of Ardmore, Pa., cousin of the groom, stood with the couple during the ceremony. Dr. Lester Rumble, pastor of St. Mark Methodist church, read the marriage service, assisted by Bishop Warren A. Candler.

Mrs. Candler is the daughter of the late Mrs. Rena Sparks and D. Benjamin Teabaut, builder and banker, of Culbert. She was graduated from Andrew Female College at Culbert, and from Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va. She is a member of Tallulah Falls Young Matrons' Circle, Sheltering Arms, Druid Hills Garden Club, St. Mark church, and a member of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson will sail tomorrow from New York on the S. S. Conte de Savoia for an extended trip to Italy, Austria, Switzerland, Germany and England, returning the latter part of August to the Biltmore hotel. They will also continue to maintain their suburban home at Ardmore, Pa.

Since her husband's death, she has been actively engaged as president and treasurer of the Biltmore hotel, which position she will continue to hold.

Cathedral of St. Philip Is Scene Of Beasley-Brown Wedding Rites

Miss Margaret Beasley and Paul Collins Brown were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Cathedral of St. Philip, the ceremony being performed by Bishop H. J. Mikel in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and friends of the young couple.

Mrs. Lawrence Norton presented a program of organ music and Miss Helen Moore, soloist, sang.

The altar of the chuff was banked with palms and ferns, and palms encircled the chancel. The altar vases held calla lilies and calla lilies filled the floor vases on either side of the altar. These were flanked by candelabra holding burning white tapers, and the family pews were marked by clusters of calla lilies tied with white satin bows.

Groomsmen were Nathan McGarrity, of Gainesville; Ray Suderth, Ben Beasley, brother of the bride; Ralph Moore, Arthur Tugler and Nathan Johnson, of Decatur. Convay Walter Hunter Jr., cousin of the bride, was junior groomsmen.

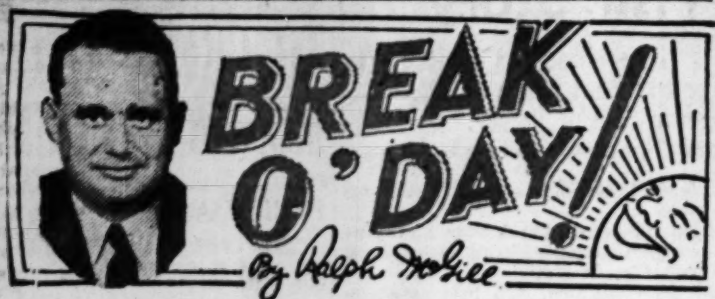

Bridesmaids were Misses Dorothy Ann Hunter, Irene Kingery, of Statesboro; Jean Pittman, of Trifton; Nancy Branyon, Evelyn Reynolds, of Siloam, and Ethel Carmichael, of McDonough.

They were becomingly gowned in peach silk marquisette with full double ruffles at the hems. Pleated ruffles formed the shoulders and contrasting aqua grosgrain ribbon finished each ruffle and tied in bows on either side of the heart-shaped necklines. The bodices of their dresses formed high empire waistlines and their large peach-blush hats were off-the-face models with flowers on the bandeaux and long aqua streamers ending at the waistline. They carried showered bouquets of blue delphinium, and pink and yellow roses tied with aqua satin ribbons.

Miss Mary Sortore, of Avondale Estates, was maid of honor. She wore

Gordon Beats Castillo, Oliver Trims Leslie in 2d Round of Southern

One day Jimmy Stahlman, now known as the Hon. James G. Stahlman, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, called me and said:

"No political writer will be busy Saturday, so I want you to help cover the Michigan-Vanderbilt football game." That was the first sports assignment I ever had. It was Nashville and 1922.

Since that time quite a few years have drifted through the hour glass of time. I have seen revolutionists with guns in Cuba; the bullet-splashed walls of Panama; Rose Bowl games and horse races and baseball and track. There were six months in Europe and a week with Charlie Yates as he won the British amateur golf championship. There were the big fights and the grand fellows who write about them.

Working for The Constitution means a lot. No real newspaperman works merely for the working. He would not be in a newspaper job if he did not like it and the paper for which he works.

Now, after a span of the most pleasant years possible, the occupant of this corner is to move to the editorial page and to a new job and column and turn this one over to a fine young man.

On Monday morning you may find me doing a stint on the editorial page. It was a pleasant act, and my first one in the new job, to name Jack Troy as sports editor. He will appear in this corner. I commend him to you for many reasons.

In the first place, he has character and loyalty. I will take those two assets before, even, ability. But Troy brings that quality also. He violates no confidence to obtain some ephemeral and temporary glory of a "beat." He brings character to his job, and the willingness to work hard and the ability to tell a story.

During the six months the writer was in Europe, Constitution readers had an opportunity to become acquainted with Troy. They like him. He and his staff of fine young men will carry on.

They may have to put up with the old gentleman, now and then. It will be impossible to keep away. And I trust the boys in the press box always will be willing to move over and let me see a few innings or a few touchdowns.

In fact, I may venture back now and then to do an occasional story for Sports Editor Troy. I don't see why an executive editor shouldn't have that privilege.

At any rate, this presents Mr. Troy. I'll be with you on Monday.

PAUL RICHARDS, MAILHO KNOCK 2 HOMERS EACH

Dunn Also Hits Home Run; Atlants Total 24 Hits.

By TOM ANDERSON.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 16.—Atlanta's Crackers, who look very much like the best ball club in Trammell Scott's circuit, slapped the Knoxville Smokies over twice here this afternoon as the two clubs opened a four-game series.

The figures were 5-to-1 and 10-to-7, but most of the story rests in the nightcap in which the never-say-die spirit of Manager Paul Richards prodded the Crackers into winning after they had incurred a seven-run deficit in the very first inning.

The Smokies hammered Leo Moon and Bobby Durham from the mound with a barrage of seven hits and seven runs.

Petrosky finished out the chapter and worked through the fifth with a yield of only one hit.

Meanwhile four home runs, two by Richards, one by Mailho, who also smacked one in the opener, and one by Dunn gave Atlanta six runs. They broke loose with a four-run spurge in the sixth that meant the ball game.

Luman Harris worked the route in the matinee, giving up seven hits and controlling the situation almost throughout.

WARREN SCORES.

The Smokies got to Harris for one run in the fifth. Warren opened with a single, went to second on Hafe's sacrifice and scored when Biggs singled to right.

Cy Moore faced only 15 Crackers in the first five frames. Rose singled in the second but was doubled off first when Sands robbed Dunn by a long running catch in right-center.

In the sixth Bolling singled to left and Richards doubled to right, placing men on second and third. Both scored on Harris' Texas leaguer to left. Moore retired the next three batters.

Harris came out of a bad hole in the seventh. Caldwell led off with a triple. Warren walked. Mauldin took Hafe's bounder and nabbed Caldwell at the plate. Biggs then hit into a double play, Peters to Lipscomb to Bolling.

MAILHO HOMERS.

Moore gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth, and opening the ninth, Mailho greeted his suc-

Adams, Whalen, Dann, Horner, Avent, McWilliams Winners.

By ROY WHITE.

PONTE VEDRA, Fla., June 16. Wright Adams, senior member of L. S. U.'s golf team, eliminated Billy Eager, the Valdosta, Ga., medalist on the 18th green to feature the first two rounds of match play in the 36th annual Southern Amateur championship tournament.

Sam Perry, a former winner, was beaten by Horace Horner Jr., Montgomery, on the 20th green; Jennings Gordon, Rome, Ga., ace, beat Harold Hall, the Carolina champion from Columbia, on the 20th, and Crawford Rainwater, former Atlantan, beat Stockton Rogers, son of Frank Rogers, the Ponte Vedra pro, on the 18th.

Gordon came back in the afternoon to beat Henry Castillo, L. S. U. sophomore, 5 and 4. S. E. Gill, East Lake youngster, beat Dr. Pierce Harris, Jacksonville, on the 18th and Morton Bright, Radium Springs, eliminated Mack Brothers, Nashville, on the 19th.

OLIVER STARS. Johnny Oliver, Valdosta, former southern intercollegiate and Georgia state champion and twice winner of the amateur medal in the Thomasville open, had two of the finest rounds of the day.

Shooting one under par for 15 holes, Oliver beat W. D. Stark, Jacksonville ace, 4-3, in the morning round and came back strong to eliminate Paul Leslie, L. S. U. star, 2-1 in the afternoon. Leslie canned a 40-foot putt at eight for a birdie, but Oliver came right back with a 13-footer to halve the hole. A par at nine gave him a 3-up lead at the turn.

The largest crowd of the day followed the Oliver-Leslie match in the afternoon and were rewarded with some great golf. Atlanta's three entries in the championship division fell under the sharpshooting of three fine players.

FLARES TAKES $37,500 ASCOT

ASCOT, England, June 16.—(P)—William Woodward's American-owned Flares, a five-year-old son of Gallant Fox, today won the historic Ascot golf cup race worth more than $37,500.

The King and Queen were in the crowd which saw Flares lead Lord Glanely's Buckleigh and W. Barnett's Senior across the finish line in that order. The race is over a course of 2 1-2 miles.

An outsider in the betting, Flares rewarded his backers at 100 to 7. Buckleigh started at 100 to 8 and Senior at 8 to 1.

Flares won by only a neck from Buckleigh, which led Senior, in turn, by another neck. The French-bred Victor II, owned by the American J. E. Widener, ran fourth in the field of ten.

Bobby Jones, veteran jockey, showed Flares the whip in the closing burst and the American horse stepped up the tempo to get home the winner by the narrow margin.

America gained another victory when Widener's American-bred brown colt, Unbreakable, captured the Waterford stakes of a mile for three-year-olds.

Ralph Guldahl Wins Western Open for Third Straight Time

SAM SNEAD NEXT WITH 286 TOTAL, 7 STROKES BACK

Champion's Last Round Is a 65, Six Under Par.

ST. LOUIS, June 16. (AP)—The greatest finisher in golf painted his masterpiece today as big Ralph Guldahl left a birdie and eagle trail along the final 18 holes for a six-under-par 65, a four-round total of 279 and his third straight western open championship.

Par, tradition and the spirit of his rivals were shattered as the big Madison, N. J., pro, well-rounded from his shoulders to his golf game, methodically tore to shreds a course which for the first two rounds of the tournament had successfully withstood every assault.

It is the first time in the 38-year history of the western open a player won three years in a row. Guldahl's 279, five strokes under par, is a fitting companion to his 284 registered in winning his second consecutive national open crown last week, when he stroked out a 69 on his final round.

And as he chipped in an 18-foot shot from off the green for a birdie on the final hole and his 65, the big gallery roared acclaim for champions' champion.

Pressed from the start by a choice assortment of sharpshooters, Guldahl would shake free from one threat, only to have another storm into sight. He held a slim one-stroke lead at the end of the first 18 Tuesday by virtue of his par 71.

RAY MANGRUM. Lanky Ray Mangrum, of Dayton, Ohio, crept unobtrusively into a tie at the 36-hole mark by registering his second straight 72 as Guldahl slipped to a 73.

Mangrum couldn't stand the pace today, but Sam Snead, the sturdy West Virginian, blasted out a 69 to replace Mangrum in a tie with the champion at the 18-hole mark. On the 19th, Guldahl had a 70 for the third round.

Then came the payoff round, with Snead willing under the pressure as Guldahl shot his bewildering scores.

He was out in 34, one under par. On the 34, one under par, he was out in 34, one under par. On the 34, one under par, he was out in 34, one under par.

The pressure manifested itself in Snead's putter. Time after time he muffed chances for birdies by blowing long or short putts. On the 14th his temper flared as a putt stopped a foot from the cup. Disgustedly he walked up to the ball, swung at it with one hand. He missed. He finished with a 72.

Dixie Pros To Seek P.G.A. Places Today

36-Hole Sectional Qualifying To Be Played at Capital City; "Pop" Beckett Entered.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY. Professional golfers from all over the southeast will tee off today at the Capital City Country Club in the 36-hole sectional qualifying rounds for the annual P. G. A. tournament at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa., in July.

Some 20 of Dixie's best will be seeking one of six places allotted this district.

Eighteen holes are scheduled this morning, play starting at 9:30 o'clock, with the final 18 beginning at 1:30 this afternoon.

Most of the golfers arrived yesterday and completed practice rounds over the 18-hole Capital City course.

SMITH HAS 71. Doyle Smith, hard-hitting pro from the Mountain Brook Club in Birmingham, turned in the best card—a par 71. Included in his round were two eagles on the par four eighth and thirteenth holes.

Arnold Mears, of Savannah, while his card was not as low as some, fired many beautiful shots and his distance off the tees served him well. He will be a contender for one of the six places.

Howard Beckett, the host professional, is the only Atlanta player entered, a survey of the entry list last night revealed. "Pop" is given a good chance to qualify, but at present Smith, with his blistering round yesterday, looms the man to beat.

Last night, the professionals "got together" for a dinner at the downtown Capital City Club. "Pop" Beckett acting as host, Gene Dahlbender, George and Harold Sargent and Billy Wilson were present. Neither Wilson nor the Sargents will compete in the qualifying.

EX-BASEBALL PLAYER. Included in the list of visiting golfers is a name well known to baseball fans—Whitey Glazner, and a 286 total, in second place.

CAME TOO LATE. Par, a better for two days, was a lamb as the field turned in a choice assortment of sizzling rounds, but they came too late. Even Jimmy Thomson's ace this afternoon was just another fine shot, although it helped him to a 292 and a tie for fourth with Leonard Dodson, of Springfield, Mo.

Toney Penna, of Dayton, Ohio, came in with a 67 for the last round which brought his total to 289, good for third place.

Dodson, first to break par with his 68 for the third round, was only four strokes off the pace at the three-quarters mark. But he exploded on the last nine this afternoon after going out in a sub-par 34.

Walter Blevins, of Kansas City, and Glenn Oatman, of Lawrence, Kan., tied for fourth with Leonard Dodson, of Springfield, Mo. On the 14th he dropped a four-footer for a birdie, and he climaxed the performance with his chip on the last hole. On only the eighth hole did he go over perfect figures.

The pressure manifested itself in Snead's putter. Time after time he muffed chances for birdies by blowing long or short putts. On the 14th his temper flared as a putt stopped a foot from the cup. Disgustedly he walked up to the ball, swung at it with one hand. He missed. He finished with a 72.

Guldahl's 279 score did not peril the record low of 273 registered by Tommy Armour at Milwaukee in 1929. Armour was well down the list with 297 today.

Guldahl's card today: Par out 434-444-344-35 Guldahl out 443-554-344-36-71 Guldahl in 443-554-344-37-70 Guldahl in 443-554-344-38-71 Guldahl in 443-554-344-39-72

Beauteous Models To Parade Before Advertising Club

Pretty girls make pretty models—and a pretty picture. These fair Atlantans were chosen as "perfect models" yesterday for the Atlanta Advertising Club's dinner-dance tonight at the Capital City Country Club. The "try-out" was held before a committee of artists and sculptors. Left to right (front) are Ruby Laney, Eleanor Raettig, Annette Godbee, Jenelle Wilhite and Doraldeana Smith. Left to right (rear) are Marilyn Harris and Mildred Klausman. Everyone was satisfied with yesterday's preview.

Seven comely young Atlanta women were chosen as "perfect models" yesterday afternoon at a "try out" under auspices of the Atlanta Advertising Club.

The girls, who were selected by a committee of artists and sculptors, will be presented at the club's dinner-dance tonight at the Capital City Country Club.

They were judged on the basis of personal qualifications. Those chosen were Ruby Laney, Eleanor Raettig, Annette Godbee, Jenelle Wilhite, Doraldeana Smith, Marilyn Harris and Mildred Klausman.

homemaking. The students will plan the meals, prepare the food, and learn how to direct a household.

Mrs. Pearl Moon and Mrs. Maude Pye Hood, house directors of the present houses, will be in charge of the new buildings.

Seventy girls already have signed up for a quarter's stay in the new houses, which will be ready by the winter term of next year.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES STIMULATED IN CANTON

CANTON, Ga., June 16.—A meeting of adults will be held Tuesday night in Canton First Baptist church to stimulate interest in Boy Scout activities in Cherokee county.

A steering committee has been named by Gilbert Bush, Atlanta, Scout aide for rural communities, as follows: R. B. Sims, chairman; Smith L. Johnston, Woodstock; Dr. M. G. Hendrix, Ball Ground; and Dr. W. W. Fincher and George A. Doss, Canton.

Mr. Bush reports there are 1,145 white boys of scouting age in Cherokee county, and only 27 Scout members.

More than 150 girls competed. The club's outing will begin at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Golf, swimming, tennis, bridge tournaments and other recreations will hold attention in the afternoon, followed by a dinner at 8 o'clock tonight.

Dancing, presentation of the models and a "parade of Atlanta talent," including young entertainers from Atlanta radio stations, will feature the night events.

More than 50 prizes have been donated by members and friends of the club.

PRESENT SYSTEM IS HIT BY SUTTON

Says Concepts of Time and Place Are Shackling Education.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., June 16.—(AP)—The present system of education is "fitting the child to the school rather than fitting the school to the child," Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, said here today.

He spoke before a conference on education at the University of Alabama.

Sutton asserted concepts of time and place were "shackling" education.

"Whether a child has a good mind or is able to learn what we call an education matters but little in our modern school system," he said. "He must wait for the tick of the clock before he can enter school. The tick of the clock, rather than native intelligence or the training of parents, determines whether or not a child should continue his or her education."

Sutton added that "no person on earth knows what a first grade child is, and I am sure that there are many children who are kept in a first grade who could do what we call third grade work just as easily."

He said the time element still dominated in high school, with a student unable to graduate unless he had "so many units."

"Somehow," Sutton continued, "we have conceived of the schoolhouse as the only possible place where a child can receive an education. Whereas, the newspaper, radio, the magazines, the playground, the athletic field, the cotton patch, the farm, the services in the home all contribute to a child's education."

"The school should be the place where inspiration is given for developing in all of these fields, and there is a co-ordination of effort."

He added that the "most important thing in the whole realm of education is to realize that we must take the school out of the schoolhouse; that we cannot shackle it with four walls."

MAINE'S REQUEST REJECTED BY F. D. R.

Canadian Treaty's Effect Will Not Be Studied.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declined today to order a special study of the effect on Maine of a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada.

He wrote Senator Hale, Republican, Maine, "It does not seem necessary or desirable to comply with your request" in view of the information the State Department sent to the Maine delegation.

The State Department commented: "The existing agreement with Canada should dispel any fears that Maine's interests will be sacrificed. On the contrary, conclusion of a new trade agreement should be beneficial to that state."

BOY SCOUT RALLY SET.
COVINGTON, Ga., June 16.—A county-wide rally of the 10 troops of Newton county Boy Scouts will be held in Porterdale Friday night, beginning at 8 o'clock. The rally will feature a series of demonstrations and contests. An attendance of 1,500 is expected.

HIWASSEE STUDENTS WILL MEET SUNDAY

HIWASSEE, Ga., June 16.—Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, will be the guest speaker in McConnell Memorial Baptist church here Sunday, when former students of Hiwassee Junior College meet to pay tribute to Professor A. B.

Greene, of Blue Ridge, who was head of the institution a quarter of a century when it was operated under the state mission board.

Other notables taking part on the program will include President T. J. Lance, of Young Harris College; Dr. A. J. Ritchie, president of Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Institute; Judge Joe Collins, of Gainesville; Judge Homer I. Sutton, of Atlanta; Dr. A. C. Shuler, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Professor W. P. Lunsford, superintendent of Darien public schools.

FARMER FALLS ON SAW, DIES OF HIS INJURIES
MACON, Ga., June 16.—(AP)—A fall on a crosscut saw proved fatal here this afternoon to Waddie

Cook, 50-year-old farmer of near Monticello. He died a short time after he was admitted to a local hospital.

Cook lived with his mother in the Shadydale community about nine miles from Monticello, friends said. He was unmarried.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Shadydale.
